Tokio Government 'Regrets' Attack Upon American Consul; Soldiers Held

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service.

MUKDEN, Jan. 4. — Japanese officials in Mukden and Harbin apologized today for the assault upon Culver B. Chamberlain, American vice consul at Harbin, who was beaten up by Japanese soldiers here while motoring to the railway station in a diplomatic automobile bearing an American flag.

M. Murashima, acting Japanese consul general, called upon Myrl Myers, American consul-general in Mukden, and officially expressed the "deepest apologies" of his government over the incident. A similar apology was delivered in Harbin.

INCIDENT NOT CLOSED

Immediately afterward, Japanese officials here announced they considered the incident closed, but a spokesman for the American consulate told International News Service that "consideration of the case has hardly begun."

The Harbin apology was delivered by Lieut. Col. Hyakutake, Japanese military representative. He called upon Chamberlain at the American consulate and inquired after his condition.

Japanese headquarters announced that a Japanese interpreter named Sakakibara, who was involved in the incident, had been dismissed from the service. He had been in employ of Japanese authorities here since September 18, the date of the invasion of Manchuria.

SOLDIERS HELD

Two Japanese soldiers are being held in connection with the affair. Japanese officials said their guilt was less than that of Sakakibara and that measures of punishment were being considered.

Making clear they do not consider the matter closed American consular officials said all facts had been referred to Washington, including the stand taken by the Japanese military authorities.

M'GOVERN WINS FIGHT FOR AUDIT

$25,000 Voted as First Move of New Board After Selection of Chairman

The long promised audit of the financial affairs of the county was ordered today by the County Commissioners, just inducted into office. With Charles C. McGovern as chairman of the new board, the audit which McGovern has been advocating for years was sanctioned on motion of Commissioner C. M. Barr. Act setup of $25,000 was ordered placed in the budget, work on which is to start Wednesday.

McGovern as County Controller had surcharges entered on county records of $117,852.56 and $10,757 against the County Commissioners. Under the regime of Robert G. Woodside as Controller, it is claimed these surcharges were nullified. Woodside had an audit of county affairs made and was severely scored by McGovern, who termed it a "whitewash."

ORDERS NEW AUDIT

With McGovern in the saddle as chairman of the Commissioners one of the first acts today was to order a new audit.

The new board also ordered the establishment of a postoffice bureau to handle all incoming and outgoing mail. This will obviate indiscriminate purchase of stamps by department heads.

McGovern was nominated for chairman by Commissioner W. D. Mansfield. Commissioner Barr seconding. Maj. William T. Rees was unanimously elected chief clerk.

The large Criminal Court room was crowded and decorated with flowers, when County Solicitor M. B. Lesher presented the commissions of the three commissioners to Judge James R. Macfarlane, who administered the oath. There was a short welcoming, and then Chairman E. V. Babcock of the retiring board opened the last meeting, at which McGovern was elected chairman.

PRAISES McGOVERN

Nominating McGovern, Commissioner Mansfield said:

"I want to nominate a man who has battled his way from the bottom to the top in the interests of the taxpayers. By rendering the same degree of service offensively as he did defensively in the last four years, he will win the gratitude of the public."

Babcock, in his swan song, said:

"I wish the members of the new board success and I ask them to conserve their health and strength, as there is plenty of work to do. I bespeak for my fellow county employes your kind consideration."

MELLON GIFT TO CHARITY RIDICULED

Governor Tells Senators Administration Burdens 'Little Fellows' for Rich

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The "Hoover-Gifford unemployment relief plan" was assailed as "vicious" by Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, today before the Senate Manufacturers' Committee. The Republican Governor urged direct federal aid for unemployment relief, a plan opposed by President Hoover.

'BIG FELLOWS' ESCAPE

He called the national voluntary relief program "the Hoover-Gifford plan," and raising his voice, said:

"It is vicious. It takes money from the little fellow. It does not take it from the big fellow.

"It is an attempt to get by without increasing taxes and letting the big fellows come in to share the load."

Pinchot estimated Secretary Mellon has an annual $10,000,000 income, and said he understood that the Secretary of the Treasury had contributed $170,000 or less to voluntary relief funds. He himself, he said, gave a quarter of his income.

TELLS OF PLEA FOR LOAN

Pinchot, whose name has been linked with presidential speculation, told of his futile effort to get a million dollar loan for the state employment fund from Secretary Mellon, and added:

"I can't conceive how a man in his position could do what he did."

He understood "a good many rich people left the country this winter so as not to be present when relief drives came along." He revealed the letter of Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, to himself last summer, saying Pennsylvania could and would take care of her own unemployed.

He related his unsuccessful effort to put through the State Legislature a $120,000,000 relief program and added:

"The Republican machine to which Senator Reed belongs defeated state relief plans."

FEARS TROUBLE

Senator Costigan asked:

"Is that machine controlled by Mellon?"

The Governor said:

"It is controlled in part at least by Mellon, but not as much as it was."

Senator La Follette asked:

"Do you care to hazard an

FIND NEW CLUE TO KILLERS OF 6

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Search for the ruthless Young brothers, who slaughtered six besieging officers to escape from their mother's farmhouse near here Saturday, was spread throughout the Southwest today by the identification of a wrecked car abandoned in Texas.

The overturned motor car near Streetman, Tex., which was abandoned by its two occupants, proved to be an automobile stolen from Harry Rogers, motor car dealer, from the business section of Springfield after dusk Saturday night.

Chief of Police Ned Waddle regarded it as the most authentic clue as to the whereabouts of the desperadoes, Harry and Jennings Young.

Seven Houston detectives this morning surrounded and later searched a cottage in a futile effort to find the killers. They acted upon a report that Harry's bride of three weeks occupied the house. Their search was continued in all known criminal haunts.

Ex-Kaiser Recovers, Able to Take Walk

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, was sufficiently recovered this afternoon from his attack of influenza to take a walk in the gardens of his estate here.

The ex-kaiser contracted the illness while chopping wood on the grounds of the estate during last week's bitterly cold spell.

Rare Gems Stolen In Heart of London

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—In one of the most daring holdups which has occurred in London in many years, several men in an automobile today robbed the manager of a jewelry store in the heart of Mayfair of $100,000 worth of gems.

Sleuth Gets Year For 'Third Degree'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Robert J. Barrett, a detective sergeant, today was sentenced to serve one year in jail, the maximum penalty for using so-called "third degree" methods on George Baber, a suspect in a holdup case.

Ex-President's Son Quits Cuban Prison

HAVANA, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Penate Menocal, son of the former president, and several others were liberated today from the Cabanas prison, where they were confined after last summer's revolution.

Japanese, Chinese Chiefs To Confer on Truce

NANKING, China, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Foreign Minister Eugene Chen and Japanese Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu are slated to confer shortly for direct settlement of the Manchurian conflict, published reports said today.

The Central News Agency, official mouthpiece of the Chinese government, said: "This conference will occur within a few days and momentous results may be expected."

Couple Marooned 10 Days in Snow Saved

BISHOP, Cal., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—After being marooned nearly 10 days in huge snowdrifts with their stalled automobile as their only shelter, two persons were saved yesterday from possible death by starvation or exposure in the upper Owens Valley. They are Mrs. Mary J. Morrison, of Upland, Cal., and her nephew, J. M. Curtin, sailor attached to the battleship Pennsylvania.

For eight days, the pair remained in the automobile. Finally, Curtin decided to risk a chance to find aid. He walked a day and a night through huge snowdrifts and eventually came to the main highway, 30 miles away. A rescue party was sent to Mrs. Morrison about a week ago and was found a few days later in Niagara Falls.

His wife told police that an old injury suffered while working for the Edgewater Steel Company, at Oakmont, some years ago, and which had necessitated amputation of a leg, had been causing him much pain lately and that he had seemed depressed.

Householder, who lived at 429 Delaware avenue, Oakmont, has been postmaster for about six years.

ARTISTS ARRIVE FOR WCAE FETE

DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor

The stage is set, the players are ready—and tonight at 10 o'clock the curtain will rise on the greatest radio show in Pittsburgh's history.

Two hundred artists await their cue and two celebrated orchestra leaders—Duke Ellington and Erno Rapee—have batons poised anxiously awaiting the signal to start a scintillating performance that will dedicate WCAE as "The Voice of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph."

Famous radio stars, nationally known cartoonists and notable figures of the newspaper and radio world will combine in a colorful two and a half-hour celebration, part of which will be distributed over a coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting System.

Because of the large cast, both New York and Pittsburgh studios will be used.

Gandhi in Jail, British Act to Spike Revolt

India Leader Smiles At Jailor; London Rushes Troops

POONA, India, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Mahatma Gandhi was walled up today in the British jail at Yerawda, a few miles from here, for the third time in his career as leader of the Indian Nationalists.

The little Indian leader was brought here this morning from Bombay, where he was arrested dramatically in the early morning hours for what the warrant said were "good and sufficient reasons."

At the same time that Gandhi was arrested, Vallabhai Patel, president of the Indian National Congress, also was taken into custody and a new series of repressive decrees against boycotting of British goods, "unlawful instigation," "unlawful association" and other acts associated with the civil disobedience type of "warfare" were promulgated at New Delhi by Viceroy Lord Willingdon.

It was Gandhi's day of silence and this kept him from speaking, but he gave his old jailer a broad smile of recognition. Gandhi's prison baggage included his portable spinning wheel, a pail of goat's milk, a basket of fruit, a rusty pen knife, an American fountain pen, a spare loincloth, a pair of sandals, a copy of an essay of Thoreau's, which includes a dissertation on civil disobedience, a straw mattress and a Bible.

Britain to Fight Gandhi Disobedience Campaign

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The government of Great Britain, operating through the government of India, will use all its statutory power to combat Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign, it was learned today on the highest authority.

This authority described the campaign as a challenge to the fundamentals of law and order and asserted it would be dealt with as such.

DEVONPORT, England, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A detachment of 100 men from the 2nd Battalion Rifle Brigade left today for Southampton to embark tomorrow for India.

HOOVER URGES SPEED ON BILLS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—President Hoover, in a surprise special message to Congress, today urged immediate action upon his emergency economic program.

Mr. Hoover declared emphatically the need is "even more evident" than when it was first laid before Congress.

Soon after it reached the Senate and House, reading of the document was begun. The chambers began to be filled when word spread around.

The President pleaded that there be no partisan action, but that there be unity in swift adoption of eight measures previously proposed by him. He said:

"We can and must replace the unjustifiable fear in the country by confidence."

ENUMERATES MEASURES

Enumerating the measures "requiring immediate action," he said they were "designed to check the further degeneration in prices and values, to fortify us against continued shocks from world instability and to unshackle the forces of recovery."

Emphasizing, Mr. Hoover said:

"I would be derelict in my duty if I did not inform the

'Bugs' Baer Wisecracks On Co-Stars at WCAE

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

See that Gandhi is back in the jailhouse.

The goat is out on bail.

When they searched the Mahatma they found a spinning wheel, a rusty pen knife, an American fountain pen, a pair of sandals, copy of Thoreau, a basket of fruit and a pail of milk.

They wouldn't find that much on a shoplifter in the five and ten. Chin Ling Foo, the great Chinese magician, used to pull a bowl of gold fish out of his clothes, but he wore a big baggy kimona.

The Mahatma wears only a loin cloth. That's why he sings "I'll get by as long as I have you."

We cabled the old boy offering our moral support, but he wired back:

"I'll do better without you. You'll help me like television would help Kate Smith."

The Mahatma looks something like Claude Bowers, who we have to introduce on the air over Station WCAE. The radio gallery remembers Claude from that great speech he made a couple of years ago at the Democratic Victory Dinner.

That speech tore the whiskers off the Republican party, but nobody could prove Mr. Bowers' claim that they were giving out athletic scholarships for the President's Cabinet.

If our memory hasn't skipped its sound track the Republicans won the election in spite of Claude's marvelous marathon in parenthesis.

You won't hear us much. They've made us Master of Ceremonies. Our job is to tell you what is going to happen next. But not how to avoid it.

Davis Asks Mayors Need for U. S. Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Senator James J. Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, today telegraphed the mayors of all cities and burgesses of all towns in Pennsylvania, asking them whether federal appropriations would be needed to care for the unemployed this winter.

Congress Pay Cut Proposed by Borah

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Salary reductions for members of Congress, the cabinet and the Farm Board were proposed in measures introduced today by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, Friday, to legalize 4 per cent beer.

The departments were asked to present figures for each year from 1909 to 1917.

Meanwhile state liquor control was called for in a bill by Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin.

He would authorize the states to define intoxicating liquors and permit wine and beer.

The government would be authorized, however, to enforce the Volstead act within the alcoholic content limits fixed by the states.

Senate Asks Job Figures On Pre-Prohibition Beer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A resolution asking the Commerce Department for a report on the number of people employed in the manufacture of beer before prohibition was adopted today by the Senate.

The Senate also approved a joint resolution asking the Agriculture Department for a report on the amount of grain used.

Both resolutions were offered by Senator Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, who had introduced a bill on which hearings start,

CONGRESSMEN HAIL HEARST'S 'AMERICA FIRST' APPEAL

IMPETUS GIVEN BOOM FOR GARNER

Republicans and Democrats Agree Publisher Gave Voice To Awakened Spirit of U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—William Randolph Hearst gave voice to the awakened spirit of Americanism and to the rising wrath against internationalism in Congress, which only a fearless man have had the courage to express publicly.

This was the opinion of general reaction of members of Congress, Republicans and Democrats alike, to the speech of Mr. Hearst Saturday night over the Pacific coast network of the National Broadcasting Company from Los Angeles.

His praise and denunciations aroused little interest as they gave no aid or comfort to the candidacy of John N. Garner of Texas for the Democratic presidential nomination.

This interest, however, was secondary to that of the isolationist theme that ran through the address.

VIEWS INDORSED

After listening to the radio address over WJZ, one of the local stations of the National Broadcasting Company, many Senators and Representatives generally indorsed Mr. Hearst's views on the need to look to America first.

Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, Progressive Republican, and Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, Farmer-Laborite, were opposed to President Hoover's comments on the international phases of the address. The comment follows:

Senator Blaine—I am in entire agreement with Mr. Hearst in his opposition to European entanglements. Much of our unhappy situation is due to intermeddling in European affairs.

Further meddling will mean more trouble for us. Then why not turn to a real candidate for president who will look after our domestic affairs first and second let Europe stew in her own broth."

Representative Bertrand H. Snell, New York Republican leader of the House—I can go along with what Mr. Hearst said about America first. American domestic affairs are paramount as far as our people are concerned.

LAUDS GARNER

Senator Connolly—I do not agree with Mr. Hearst's view regarding Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Wilson, whatever may have been his peculiarities, which aroused hostilities in certain quarters, was a great Democrat whose heart was in earnest sympathy with the great mass of the American people.

I do agree with Mr. Hearst regarding the qualities and qualifications of John N. Garner. Mr. Garner is a courageous and far-seeing Democratic statesman who has sincerely at heart the cause of democracy and the welfare of the American people without regard to station.

Senator Dill—I agree with Mr. Hearst in his opposition to any further sacrifice of American interests on the theory of helping Europe. But I feel certain that he is wrong when he says that Gov. Roosevelt as President would continue any such policy.

Senator Wheeler—I agree entirely with Mr. Hearst's statement that the international bankers and other big influences have gambled with our prosperity as well as with our politics.

FOR AMERICA FIRST

I'm for Gov. Roosevelt, because I think he will neither permit the international bankers to gamble with our prosperity nor with our politics and that he will be for America first.

Senator Ashurst—Individuals learn from history and experience, but it is certainly true and most sadly true that nations do not learn from experience or from history.

Senator Shipstead—The Republicans have copied the Wilson program with few exceptions. Debt cancellation, so far as it has gone, has been engineered by Republican administrations and supported by Democrats. Every President since Wilson has tried to tie us up with the League of Nations through the League of Nations Court.

Representative Marvin Jones—I agree with what Mr. Hearst said about the qualities of Speaker Garner.

Representative La Guardia (Rep.)—The Democrats could do nothing better than select Jack Garner. He is a fine person.

DEDICATE WCAE TONIGHT

Clark Kinnaird, of Hearst Radio Service, Arthur (Bugs) Baer and his wife, Milt Gross, the cartoonist; Russ Westover, of "Tillie the Toiler" fame, and Claude G. Bowers, political analyst, were in the party.

This group will be augmented later today with a Pullman car of NBC stars from Cleveland—Gene and Glenn, Tom Waring, Jack Turner, Russell B. Wise and others.

Gene and Glenn will have a special police escort from the railroad station to WCAE studios. They will remain in the city overnight and make tomorrow morning's network broadcast from "C" studio of WCAE.

Tom Waring, whose meteorical rise to radio success had its beginning in this city less than a year ago, will depart immediately after the celebration to be in WTAM studios tomorrow morning for his network program.

EXCHANGE GREETINGS

William Randolph Hearst, Jr., publisher of the New York American; Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, and Harry M. Bitner, publisher of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and president of WCAE, Inc., will exchange greetings. Mr. Hearst and Mr. Aylesworth will speak from New York; Mr. Bitner will speak from Pittsburgh.

The New York talent on tonight's program is not only the most elaborate ever furnished for an affair of this kind, but outranks any array yet presented in one hour over any network.

Enzo Rapee and his 35-piece orchestra will have the main spot. Other entertainers will be James Melton, tenor, sisters of the Skillet Men About Town Trio, Countess Olga Albani, soprano; Marion Harris, blues singer; Nick Lucas, crooner; Mabel Jackson, soprano; Pito Coral, South Sea songs, and Reinald Werrenrath's mixed chorus of 18.

ON AIR AT 10

The program will originate in Pittsburgh at 10 o'clock with Duke Ellington's Band playing direct from Pythian Temple in Center avenue. At 10:30 the scene of action will shift to New York. During this part of the program many "cuts" will be made into WCAE studios for artists gathered here. At 11:30 the program will come back to Pittsburgh for the remainder of the evening.

Several local artists will contribute their share to the celebration. They include Kay Cronick, blues singer; Charlotte Shallenberger and Kathryn Trnavsky, sopranos; Riggs and Moke, comedy team; the Lawson Sisters, Paul Gannon and Neal Mowry, tenors; Raymond Griffin, bass.

WCAE was purchased by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph from Gimbels. The station was established May 5, 1922, and its first studio was a telephone booth. When the National Broadcasting Company formed its first network in 1926, WCAE was one of the six stations in the chain. WCAE operates on 1220 kilocycles or 245.8 meters. Its power is 1,000 watts.

WORLD TARIFF PARLEY ASKED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A significant Democratic tariff bill calling for an international conference to eliminate high duty walls and authorizing the President to negotiate with foreign governments for reciprocal tariffs today was introduced in the House.

It would urge the President to initiate a movement for a permanent international economic conference, but would prevent American representatives to the conference from discussing reduction of international debts.

It was introduced by Chairman Collier of the House Ways and Means committee after it was approved by the Joint Senate-House policy committee at a conference in Speaker Garner's office.

Creation of a consume, counsel for the commission is provided. The rate schedule is not touched in the measure.

KAHN BLAMES HIGH PRESSURE BOND SALES

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Vigorous competition among many American investment banks for the handling of Latin-American bonds and high pressure salesmanship methods in disposing of them in the United States was admitted today by Otto Kahn, partner of Kahn, Loeb & Co., in testifying before the Senate Finance Committee in its investigation of foreign securities.

Between 25 and 30 American banking firms competed for the Latin-American business, Kahn declared. He had previously submitted a report to the committee showing that $815,000,000 of Latin-American securities are in default. It is estimated that the total loans to Latin-American countries amount to around $1,000,000,000.

Kahn expressed the view that the defaulting of these securities did not necessarily mean permanent repudiation. He characterized the situation as a "temporary suspension of payments." British experience over a period of many decades he declared, show that a large proportion of defaults are eventually paid in full.

High pressure methods in selling foreign bonds has unquestionably been an evil, Kahn declared, but he said he saw no legal way of curbing such business methods. He urged "education" as the best solution. He warned against unsound legislation which would do more harm than good. He said:

"The only way is to educate public opinion. That stresses the moral responsibility of the bankers."

2 Boy Bartenders Held in Dry Raid

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Two 14-year-old boy bartenders and two men were arrested yesterday in a raid on a large mansion in Devon. Police said many members of socially prominent families were present but none was arrested.

Peter Roff, 45, was later held under $1,500 bail on charges of possession and sale of liquor; the boys, Leroy Devlin and William Fowler, under $1,000 on charges of selling, and Patrick Doyle was held as a material witness. Police said the boys were taken from an orphanage recently.

opinion as to what will happen in the congested centers if there is not help?"

Pinchot replied:

"I think there will be trouble."

He said his state has more than 1,000,000 unemployed.

Best estimates, he said, list the jobless at 27 to 30 per cent of the employable.

Pinchot concluded:

"This talk of a dole is a cry to scare children."

PLEA BY LEWIS

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, followed Pinchot and pleaded to the committee for a special federal relief agency to meet "destitution" among the unemployed miners. He said:

"To a large extent these miners and their families are colonized in mining communities removed from the industrial centers where community chests have been provided, remote from the eyes of those fortunate citizens whose hearts are touched in the presence of destitution and beyond any hope of relief from local appropriations.

"The billions invested in bituminous coal mines have gone penniless for years, while the miners have been pushed down to the lower levels of pauperization. Many mining communities, located in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana and other states are from the standpoint of self-help literally flat on their backs, scarcely able to raise the bare necessities for the sustenance of life.

"The American Red Cross has not put a single silver dollar into the mouths of the hungry mine workers and their families."

He recalled that the miners contributed "100 per cent of their quotas to the Red Cross" in the war.

Congress of the need for action at the earliest possible moment."

BILLS MENTIONED

Here are the measures he named:

Strengthening the Federal Land Bank system, already approved by the House.

Creation of the $500,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Creation of a home loan discount bank system to revive employment and stimulate home building.

Enlargement of the discount facilities of Federal Reserve banks.

Development of a plan to restore part of the money in closed banks to depositors.

Revision of laws relating to transportation as recommended by the Interstate Commerce Commission, to "restore confidence in the bonds of our railways."

Revision of banking laws in order to better safeguard depositors.

Town Asks Divine Aid for Jobless, Fires Police

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Residents of Winslow Township offered prayers for help in their unemployment situation following passage by the township committee of a resolution calling upon Providence for assistance in finding work for the jobless.

After the committee had passed its resolution asking Divine aid, it passed another in which its five special police officers were notified that their services would no longer be required.

WHEAT TO HELP POOR HELD DOLE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Complaint was raised today as the Senate deabted a bill to use 40,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat for the unemployed and others in distress.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, said the measure proposed a "dole" and warned the Senate it should proceed with caution unless it was willing to recognize the move as such.

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, objected to the bill, contending the wheat should be bought from farmers instead of the board.

Robinson asked Senator Capper (Rep.), of Kansas, one of the bill's authors, if the Red Cross, named as one of the distributing agencies, had agreed to use the wheat. Robinson recalled that in the last session the Red Cross refused to accept $25,000,000 from the Treasury to assist drought sufferers.

Capper said he believed the Red Cross attitude had "changed somewhat."

FOREIGN BONDS IN CLOSED BANK

Almost $200,000 in foreign bonds, none of which were worth more than half of their par value, are held by the defunct Franklin Savings and Trust Company, it was learned today as the Senate Finance Committee continued its investigation of the dumping of such bonds on United States markets.

International bankers have made millions of dollars while American investors have lost heavily through the sale of such bonds, according to a supplementary report made by the committee.

Foreign bonds held by the company include $100,000 worth of Cuban Northern Railroad Company 5½ per cent bonds, maturing in 1942; City of Nuremberg, Germany, 6 per cent bonds maturing in 1952; City of Brisbane, Australia, 5 per cent bonds maturing in 1958; Department of Cundinamarco, 6½ per cent bonds maturing in 1959; Havana Electric Company, first mortgage 5½ per cent bonds, maturing in 1951; Poland 7s, maturing in 1947; Republic of Peru, 6 per cent, maturing in 1960; Republic of Peru, 6 per cent, maturing in 1961; Republic of Colombia, 6 per cent, maturing in 1961, and Jugoslavia 7 per cent bonds, maturing in 1957.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 4.—(AP)—John A. Cygon, 19, whose experiments with electric remote control at the Annapolis Naval Academy led to his resignation from the institution about a year ago, was found dead in his bed at his home here yesterday. A verdict of suicide was given by the Coroner, who said a note from which a deadly gas had been released was found in the youth's hands.

Young Cygon's case at the Naval Academy caused nationwide attention. In announcing his resignation, academy officials said that in the course of electrical experiments he had established remote control of the elevator, clocks and lighting systems of Bancroft Hall and had arranged things so that he could cut in on the direct telephone of the academy without the service of an operator.

After his resignation, he was offered positions by several firms interested in capitalizing his knowledge of electricity, but he decided to seek admission to the West Point Military Academy. It was understood he had received a conditional appointment to that institution.

The youth's father, Maj. Joseph B. Cygon of the 3rd Army Corps Area, declared his son had died from a heart attack. He said there was no connection between the tube and his son's death. The youth, he explained, had been experimenting with such tubes for some time. The coroner, on the other hand, said Cygon had inhaled the gas, a type used in hospitals in limited quantities to reduce pain.

Dry League's Fund Plea Puzzles Adherents

Pittsburgh subscribers to the Anti-Saloon League of America, pressed for payment of pledges not yet due, were puzzled today by apparently conflicting statements concerning the league's need for funds.

In a form letter sent subscribers, Dr. Howard B. Russell, 76-year-old founder of the league, wrote:

"A sudden blow has struck. A new, unexpected, shocking blow! The Bank of Westerville has failed. . . . . Our league credit is immediately in peril."

Today's dispatches from Westerville quoted Dr. Russell as saying the letter had not been intended for publication and:

"I don't consider our financial trouble serious."

WESTERVILLE, O., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Dr. Howard B. Russell, of the Anti-Saloon League, has sent out a call for financial contributions "on the credit of the league will not be imperiled" by the recent failure of the Bank of Westerville, Dr. Russell admitted here today.

As a result of the bank closing, the American League Publishing Company here, which publishes the Anti-Saloon League magazines, has been called upon to pay notes due the bank "a little sooner than they would otherwise have been paid," it was learned from S. P. McNaught, of Columbus, superintendent of the Ohio league.

Dr. Russell refused to say how much money is needed.

He declared:

"We are meeting all notes as they come due. I don't consider that our financial trouble is a serious one. Nearly any business in the country might make a similar appeal without being considered in great danger.

SLEUTHS IN SCHOOLEY PROBE FAIL TO LOCATE GRENET

ASSEMBLYMAN MISSED BY SERVERS

Fails to Appear Either At Home or Brewery as Detectives Pursue Hunt

Assemblyman Samuel J. Grenet, sought with a subpena to appear before the December grand jury investigating the administration of Roy D. Schooley, discharged City Treasurer, had not been found by four county detectives this afternoon.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park wishes Grenet to testify before the grand jury completes its presentment tomorrow when it reconvenes after the New Year holiday.

Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren went to Grenet's home on the North Side Saturday and was told Grenet would be home at 8 p. m. He failed to appear, Murren reported. Detectives also went to the Fort Pitt Brewing Company and were told Grenet would be in soon. Again he did not show up, they reported, and they later were informed he had "gone to town."

Surprise was expressed at the detective headquarters at Grenet's failure to appear when he knew a subpena had been issued for him.

In charging the January grand jury today Judge James H. Gray alluded to a "probable special investigation." District Attorney Park, informed of the court's remarks, said he did not think there would be any special probe by the January jury.

Park's reply was taken to indicate he will be too busy with the trial of Mayor Kline this month to handle another investigation at this time. Later, he hinted, there may be special matters brought before another grand jury.

RAID COCKFIGHT, ARREST 114

Three women and 111 men were scheduled for hearings before Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan tomorrow night as the result of a raid on a cockfight Sunday morning.

State police and other officers swooped down on Shock's farm, between Spring Garden avenue extension and Ramage road, early Sunday morning, arrested the 114 persons and seized 44 valuable fighting birds.

Six persons escaped from the building in which the fights were being staged.

The men and women arrested were taken to Squire Morgan's office, where each posted $15 bond for hearings. The women gave their names as Mrs. E. M. Mason, Mabel Lester and Madeline Hoffman, all of Reading. The birds were taken to the Humane Society headquarters under state police guard, after officers had received word of a plan to highjack the society's truck and recover the birds.

Shriners Dedicate Convention Plane

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—(Universal)—A seven-passenger, tri-motored airplane has been added to the equipment of the committee arranging for the national Shrine convention to be held here next July.

The ship was dedicated yesterday at San Francisco Airport at a ceremony participated in by Gov. Rolph, Imperial Shrine Potentate Thomas J. Houston, Potentate William Woodfield, Jr., of Islam Temple and others.

$15,000 Fire Destroys Moundsville Club

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 4.—(AP)—The club house of the Moundsville Country Club was destroyed by fire last night. The loss was estimated at $15,000. The caretaker and his family were at church when the fire was discovered. Its cause has not been determined.

Lack of firefighting facilities handicapped firemen from Moundsville and Glendale. The nearest fire hydrant was a quarter of a mile away.

LOVESICK GIRL TAKES POISON

After writing two love notes, Jane Norbit, 18, swallowed poison in a rooming house at 363 South Highland avenue, early today, police reported. At the Homeopathic Hospital her condition was said to be fair.

The notes, splattered with the liquid which she swallowed, were addressed to Hunk Anthony Malley, 1101 Paulson avenue.

One read:

"Goodbye Hunk. I love you with my heart and soul and I can't stop it. So here I go. Luck to you and God bless you, for you are not to blame. You were good to me, but I love you, so you can't give your home for me."

The other note:

"I have been good to you, but you never repaid. Goodbye, God bless you. . . . This is Jane's note to Hunk Malley from deep down in her heart. Hunk kiss your mother for me for I love her so, but I can't help killing myself for you. With my heart and soul I love you."

Borah, Polish Envoy Meet Peacefully

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Polish corridor was left outside yesterday when Senator Borah and Ambassador Filipowicz, of Poland, met at dinner for the first time since their tiff over the controversial issue.

Borah went to the Polish embassy for lunch—an event he termed "purely social." It was during the visit of French Premier Laval that the Idaho Senator's startling pronouncements to French newspapermen urging revision of the Versailles Treaty brought about a rather public exchange with Filipowicz on that narrow strip which connects Poland with the sea.

Scalded Boy Lives With Tube in Throat

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 4.—Harold Feltenberger, 5, who reached for a teapot of boiling water and inserted the spout in his mouth suffering throat scalds, will recover, doctors say. The child is breathing through a silver tube in his throat.

McCloskey Faces Fight In Johnstown 'Cleanup'

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 4.—Eddie McCloskey, former prizefighter, was sworn in as Mayor of Johnstown today on the City Hall steps while 3,000 persons looked on.

City Clerk John Cramer and members of Council expected the ceremony to take place in the council chamber, according to precedent. But McCloskey, insisting that all of his friends see the show, refused to go up.

After a parley, Clerk Cramer went down and administered the oath. Councilmen remained aloof.

Former Mayor "Joe" Cauffiel pardoned by Gov. Pinchot after serving a term in Cambria County jail on gambling and malfeasance charges, welcomed the new mayor, declaring:

"I'm glad to see McCloskey mayor. He'll clean up the City Hall gang."

Responding, McCloskey made known that John Carroll, a city detective, would be the new police chief, adding:

"If Carroll doesn't close up the speakeasies in three months, we will get someone else."

Later Charles Briney, the present police head, said that, guided by council and the city solicitor, he had no intention of resigning.

'STAY-AT-HOME' HUSBAND HELD IN SLAYING

Accused of Stabbing Man Who Bought Gay Clothes, Took Wife to Parties

SELINSGROVE, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP)—The association of a prominent, small town merchant with a gay 18-year-old wife whose husband was a stay-at-home, police believe, is the first chapter of the story behind the murder charge which today will be preferred against Martin Snyder, 26, of near McClure.

Snyder was arrested in the mountain home of his father-in-law, where he fled after the fatal stabbing of Harry A. Wagner, 56, McClure merchant, Saturday night, in Snyder's kitchen.

The stabbing followed a rough and tumble fight, with Snyder pitted against his father, Murray Snyder, and Wagner. Several times he was held unable to move, but each time he worked loose. Finally, his wife said her father-in-law told her, he seized a hunting knife and plunged it into Wagner's heart.

Mrs. Snyder, flashily dressed in clothes and jewelry which she said Wagner had given her, today told the story of the fight. She said:

"Harry (Wagner) was always kind to me. He took me on trips and we often met at parties. My husband was a stay-at-home. He seldom would go out places with me.

"Martin planned to go out. He burned my only dress shoes to make sure I would stay home while he was away. He couldn't find some of his clothes, and that delayed his leaving. He was still here when Harry arrived early in the evening. Murray (Muck) Snyder, Martin's father, got here about that time, too.

"Martin became angry. He accused Harry about me, and I left the room."

She did not see the fight, she said, concluding:

"My husband ran upstairs to me, and said 'I stabbed Harry Wagner.' He clutched me frantically, weeping bitterly and then hurried away."

Wagner is survived by his widow and one daughter.

Leap Year No Help To Lily Damita

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—This is Leap Year, but Cupid must wait in the romance between Sidney A. Smith, New York broker, and Lily Damita, French screen star. Returning from a visit in Santa Barbara, Cal., Miss Damita and Smith today evaded questions about their reported engagement to marry. Lily said:

"Mr. Smith is going back to New York soon, and absence makes the heart grow fonder. I naturally expect to marry some day, but not now. My career keeps me in Hollywood. Mr. Smith? That's hard to tell. We're very good friends. Maybe so later."

White House Quiet As Children Leave

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(Universal.)—The White House was strangely quiet yesterday as Peggy Anne and Herbert III, grandchildren of the President, were bundled onto a train for their home at Palo Alto, Cal.

The President and Mrs. Hoover accompanied them to the station to bid them farewell. They then said farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr. They promised to meet again when the President goes to Los Angeles next summer to attend the Olympic games.

FIRE CHIEF HELD IN FALSE ALARM

Fire Chief John Hazlett, of Tarentum's Eureka Volunteer Hose Company, was scheduled to appear before Justice of the Peace Emil Starke tonight and explain a false alarm which wrecked two of the borough's new fire trucks and injured six firemen early New Year's Day.

Police Chief William Kelly said he arrested Hazlett after the latter had confessed to sounding the alarm as part of his New Year celebration.

Highland Volunteer Hose Company's truck stopped at Second avenue and Locke street, from where the alarm had been sounded, shortly after midnight. A second truck, that of the Summit Volunteer Hose Company, also answering the alarm, skidded into it.

Six of the 30 firemen manning the machines were thrown to the street.

Walter Staley, 24, one of the Highland firemen, is in the Allegheny Valley Hospital from injuries received in the crash.

Group Bankruptcy Planned by Farmers

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Small farmers of Finland, claiming financial distress, want to sign a mass petition in bankruptcy as soon as their obligations reach the billion mark figure. Obligations of those who have signed it thus far total 300,000,000 Finnish marks—about $4,500,000.

Rare Silver Stolen From Chicago Man

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Washington Porter II, one of Chicago's wealthiest bachelors, reported to police that a set of rare Russian enameled silverware worth $10,000 had been stolen from his Lake Park avenue home while he was in Egypt last year.

VOLPE RITES

In the largest funeral ever held in Wilmerding, friends of Chester C. Volpe, 24, killed in an auto crash New Year's morning, paid tribute to the young member of the Volpe political faction this morning.

As the metal casket, under a floral blanket, stood in the street preparatory to being placed in the hearse, eight of the young man's brothers stood with bowed heads for five minutes beside the casket. The casket had been taken from the Volpe home after floral offerings, which filled 25 touring cars had been removed. Motion pictures of the funeral were taken.

As the funeral cortege, made up of upward of 250 autos, left the home at Middle and Bridge streets the Westinghouse Airbrake Company's Band played a dirge, and led the cortege to St. Aloysius' Church, where a high requiem mass was sung. Burial was in Grandview Cemetery, East McKeesport.

Polish Film Star Must Leave U. S.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Janina Smolinska, Polish film actress, must return to her native land by January 6 or face deportation, immigration authorities said yesterday. Only intervention of the Secretary of Labor, to whom her attorney said he would appeal, will stay the action.

Two Banks in Merger Open at Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 4.—(AP)—The new Union National Bank, formed by a consolidation on the First and Commercial National Banks, opened for business today with $8,000,000 cash on hand, and more than $20,000,000 in deposits.

Southern Pacific Workers Accept Cut

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Southern Pacific Company announced today that approximately 8,000 employes, or about one-half of the personnel of Southern Pacific Lines in Texas and Louisiana, have accepted an unconditional 10 per cent reduction in wages, effective January 1.

COMB 5 CITIES IN BOMB PLOT

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The police of five cities today sought the perpetrators of three bombings and two attempted bombings, one in Youngstown, O., and the other an effort to dynamite the St. Louis Mart, a 20-story structure in the heart of the industrial district of the Missouri metropolis. No one was killed or injured.

The bombs were exploded in Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, Trenton, N. J., and Chicago yesterday and last night.

Meanwhile federal and other investigators continued a search for those responsible for last week's Easton, Pa., bombings which caused the deaths of three men.

A cabinet maker who used to work in an explosive factory was hunted to tell what he may know of the mail bomb plot.

Suspected Bomb Sent Judge Fake

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 4.—(AP)—An alert postal clerk today segregated from the mails a package addressed to Judge Antonio A. Capotosta, of the Superior Court. Postal inspectors fired into it. Nothing happened.

Inspected, the package proved to be an oatmeal box, containing ashes and an old flat iron.

Invention Destroyed After 40 Years' Work

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 4.—(AP)—After 40 years of study and work, Claude W. Johnson had virtually completed an invention which he claimed would generate electricity in the home and thereby prove a great saving to households. Saturday burglars looted his home and then applied a torch. The house was burned and with it the invention.

Jesuit Priest Named College President

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Announcement of the appointment of the Rev. Joseph A. Herbers, S. J., dean of men at Creighton University for the past five years, as president of Regis College, Denver, has been made by President Patrick J. Mahan, S. J., of Creighton. The appointment was made by the superior general of the Jesuit Order in Rome.

American Woman Freed by Chinese

PEIPING, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Miss Harriet Halverstadt, American missionary who had been held captive by a roving band of Chinese bandits for several weeks, was released and arrived in Foochow yesterday, according to an announcement by the American Legation here today.

The release, which relieved grave fears for her safety, was effected through the intervention of Chinese authorities, the legation said.

Japan Asks Redress For Canton Slaying

PITTSBURGHERS HURT IN BUS CRASH, FIRE

Locked Brake Held Cause For Stoyestown Accident; Left Here Sunday Night

STOYESTOWN, Pa., Jan. 4.—Thirty persons were injured, two seriously, early today when a passenger bus of the Great Eastern Stages left the Lincoln Highway, leaped a ditch, overturned and caught fire. The blaze was extinguished by the volunteer fire company. None of the passengers was burned.

Those seriously injured were Mrs. Bessie Brown, 60, of Woodbridge, N. J., and P. A. Kneff, of 105 Atlas street, Akron, O. Both were removed to Johnstown Hospital.

Among the less seriously hurt were three from the Pittsburgh district:

Alvin Gamewell, Turtle Creek; Stella Grachat, Bentleyville, and G. J. Gearing and J. A. Hamilton, Pittsburgh.

The driver of the bus said that the front brake on the machine locked, causing him to lose control of the bus.

The bus left Pittsburgh at 8:15 last night.

SLAYING OF GIRL LAID TO HUNTER

BRYAN, O., Jan. 4.—(AP)—The bullet that killed Kathleen Carver, 12, near here yesterday, probably was fired by a hunter or someone at target practice, investigating officials said today.

With a wound in her side, the body of the child was found beside a farmhouse near her home, and officers at first believed she had been slain by a prowler.

The bullet, found in Kathleen's clothing, was the type used in powerful rifles, and possibly came from an 80-acre woods a half mile away, officials said. The woodland has been a favorite haunt of hunters and target-shooters.

BRIDGE BATTLE IN FINAL WEEK

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—The "battle of the century" in the contract bridge world swung into its fourth and last week today.

Ely Culbertson and Mrs. Josephine Culbertson, his wife, will resume play against Sidney Lenz and Commander Winfield Liggett, Jr., tonight. Only 30 rubbers remained to be played in the 150-rubber tournament designed to test the approach-forcing as against the "official" system.

The Culbertsons have a lead of 20,220 points. It is expected the contest will end Friday.

Rex Lease to Wed Musical Comedy Star

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Romance has blossomed anew in the life of Rex Lease, handsome young film cowboy, and he'll marry Miss Esther Muir, New York musical comedy star, in April, he admitted today. He said:

"This time the marriage will stick—for both of us."

Charlotte Merriam Lease divorced him in 1929 and Eleanor Hunt, film actress, divorced him last autumn. Miss Muir divorced Busby Berkeley, screen director, last summer.

Rockefeller Urges Mexican Good Will

ORMOND, Fla., Jan. 4.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., sent an informal message of good will to the people of Mexico by the leader of a Mexico City orchestra, which played at Daytona Beach. He said:

"Our good friends in Mexico and we must come closer together, and we must all do our part."

Secretary Lamont In New Building

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Department of Commerce today began administrative work in its new $17,500,000 building, which is the first of the great group of office structures being erected here by the government.

Secretary Lamont, his executive staff, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and the various activities have been moved.

BRYAN '16 TO 1' PLAN REVIVED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana will introduce today a [illegible] for free coinage of silver, as well as [illegible] the basis of the values of silver in one of gold.

Dragging from the dust of nearly 40 years, he proposes [illegible] 16 to 1 proposal of William Jennings Bryan in the campaign of 1896, the Montana Senator declared his plan would:

1—Double the volume of the world's primary money, increasing the conservative credit basis by 20 times the amount of primary money thus added to the world's stock.

2—Treble the monetary value of world price in cotton, wheat and all other agricultural products within one year.

3—Quadruple the purchasing power of over 50 per cent of the entire world's population now using silver as their sole yardstick of exchange, resulting in creation of a market which would absorb all surplus raw materials and manufactured products.

CONGRESS RADIO POLL CALLED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—A national referendum of radio listeners is to be held to determine whether they want Congress on the air, it was announced today by E. J. Gough, director of Hearst Newspapers Radio Service, the organization which started the movement to broadcast congressional sessions several years ago.

Poll of the listeners on a national basis will be taken by newspapers in co-operation with radio stations. A referendum seems necessary, it is said, because of division of opinion among members of Congress.

Introduction of a bill by Senator Dill in the Senate yesterday calling for installation of microphones in the Senate chamber to enable broadcasting of pick-up deliberations of Senators followed the announcement of material interest in the plan by the Hearst radio service officials.

Assurances have been given the Hearst Radio Service, according to Clark Kinnaird who with Gough started the movement for congressional broadcasting, that chain broadcasters would welcome an opportunity to broadcast the important deliberations of the two houses.

HOUSE SLASHES HOOVER BUDGET

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS)—In the first major supply bill of this session reported to the House today, the Democratic majority slashed President Hoover's budget estimates $13,443,900.

It was the urgent deficiency bill, carrying $125,886,262, and providing appropriations for the current fiscal year of $50,000,000 for federal-state roads construction and $46,872,975 for the veterans' administration, among lesser items. The federal building program deficiency estimate was cut $3,000,000 to $17,000,000.

An item of $1,500,00 recommended by the appropriations committee makes up a deficit in the Postoffice Department occasioned by the shorter work week for railway mail clerks.

Among the major cuts the committee sliced $10,000,000 from the $60,000,000 asked by the Budget Bureau for federal aid to the states' road construction.

HOUSE NAVAL FIGHT OPENS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS)—The first gun of the offensive by advocates of a "treaty strength" Navy in Congress was fired today by Representative Carl Vinson (Dem., of Georgia, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee.

Vinson introduced a bill in the House of Representatives calling for construction of 130 ships at a cost of $616,000,000, all to be built during the next 10 years.

All of this construction the bill stated, is permissible under the terms of the London naval treaty, as all of the ships except two 20,000-ton aircraft carriers, are replacements ships. The times stipulated in the bill for laying down the ships also are in accordance with the treaty term.

SMITH PAYROLL REPORTS FILED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Democratic National Committee today filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives photostatic copies of payrolls of the national headquarters in New York in the 1928 presidential campaign.

They were filed by James W. Gerard, National Committee treasurer, with an affidavit that they were "true copies" of the payrolls. The names of those receiving money also were given.

The reports were filed in answer to charges by Representative Woods of Indiana, chairman of the Republican national congressional committee, that the Democratic National Committee had concealed some of its expenditures in the Smith-Hoover campaign.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—(INS)—Two women fliers, Mrs. Dene Stanford, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Ruth Stewart, of St. Louis, who plan a 5,500-mile flight from New York to Buenos Aires, hopped off here today for New York.

Nation's Health During 1931 Best Ever

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The little-bemoaned year 1931 brought this country one great blessing—better health than ever before in history.

Surgeon General Cumming told President Hoover about it in a letter crediting this greater freedom from disease largely to popular interest in health measures and increased efficiency of the state, county and city health units.

He had a word, too, for the medical profession, praising it for devoted self-sacrifice in serving humanity regardless of the chances of payment.

KENTUCKY MINE UNION RAIDED

PINEVILLE, Ky., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Local headquarters of the National Miners' Union which called a strike in the Southeastern Kentucky coal fields were raided today, several men arrested and literature seized.

Deputy sheriffs made the raid on orders of County Attorney Walter B. Smith, who ordered them to seize any seditious literature found. He said Communist Party pamphlets had been distributed here and in the coal mine camps in the last two days.

The coal strike which appeared to have had little effect in Harlan County, was reported here to have extended to several other Bell County mines today. Pickets were on duty at mines. No disorder was reported.

Father of Seven Kills Wife and Self

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Seven children, all less than 17 years old, were orphaned last night when their father shot and killed the mother and then committed suicide following a quarrel.

Nicholas Stefanik, 38, of Mahanoy City, the father, shot his wife, Nancy, once as she was leaving the home following a prolonged quarrel, and then, as a crowd gathered, killed himself.

Kittanning Politician Found Dead in Bed

KITTANNING, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Edward M. King, 65, defeated Democrat commissioner nominee, was found dead in bed at his home yesterday. Cerebral hemorrhage caused death. The veteran political leader complained of being ill Saturday, but a physician said his condition was not serious.

600 SEEK 125 JOBS AT DAM

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 4.—Five times as many men applied for jobs during the first hour of registration here as have been allotted Lawrence county in the clearing of land for the new Pymatuning reservoir.

There was a long, orderly line in front of the Y. M. C. A. when the registration office was opened by state officers today, and at the end of the first hour more than 600 had registered. This county's allotment is 125. Sharon and Espyville are the other registration points. Only local unemployed will be registered.

The work of clearing the land is to start next Monday and as soon as possible thereafter the maximum of 1,000 will be put to work.

Moore Takes Office, Faces Pay Problem

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—(AP)—[illegible] Hampton Moore became Mayor of Philadelphia [illegible] for the second time in 12 years, succeeding Harry A. Mackey.

Moore's first concern will be the problem of raising funds with which to pay nearly 26,000 municipal employees their December 31 salaries. Their pay has been held up because of the necessity of restoring loans used last year for unemployment relief purposes has exhausted the treasury.

Absent-Mindedness Balks Fume Suicide

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Asa C. Hill's absent-mindedness saved his life. He closed the garage doors, started his automobile thinking to end it all with monoxide fumes. But he had forgotten to replenish his gasoline supply and the motor stopped in time.

'HAPPY' MORAN HURT IN CRASH

Hurt when his automobile collided with a street car at California avenue and Sunday street, P. E. (Happy) Moran, 44, former city detective who was fired for his activity in the Malone-Kline mayoralty fight, was in a critical condition in Presbyterian Hospital today.

Moran, who lives at 3616 Mexico street, received a fracture of the skull and his automobile was demolished in the collision. Physicians said his recovery was doubtful.

His partner on the detective force, Vincent Cavanaugh, died Saturday night of pneumonia. Cavanaugh, who recently was appointed to a position in the State Welfare Department, was dismissed from the Detective Bureau with Moran for his political affiliations.

GORDON STATES STAND ON BANKS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—The position of Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary of banking, on reopening of Washington, Pa., state banks is revealed authoritatively today in a letter sent by Gordon to James S. Boyd, president protem of the Senate, December 30 after the Senate passed a resolution urging Gordon to re-open closed institutions.

Charging that "an unfair campaign of advertising has been presented in the newspapers with respect to the affairs of the Union Trust Company at Washington, Pa., Gordon said that no satisfactory plan of reorganization had yet been presented to him. He said:

"I should be most happy to see closed banks reorganized and operated on a sound basis. However, until a specific plan containing a satisfactory setup has been received in this office, naturally no action for the approval of a plan can be taken by me.

"Propaganda, in many instances stimulated by former officers who managed their banks in ways which resulted in the freezing of their assets and by directors and depositors who often are heavy borrowers in the institution has been disseminated to the people, who have not the factual information with the result that unjust conclusions are drawn by the people of various communities which cause them to believe that the Department of Banking will not be sympathetic toward reopening of a bank."

TWO BOYS HELD IN STABBING

Stabbed in the right lung, police say, in a quarrel at a football game yesterday, Alexander Ditkin, 16, of House 48 Mollenauer, is in South Side Hospital in a serious condition.

A 12-year-old boy, who is alleged to have done the stabbing, is in the Juvenile Court detention room. His brother, 16, is in jail. Both are charged with felonious stabbing by Chief of Police Elmer Ziler, of Castle Shannon.

According to Chief Ziler, the two brothers and Ditkin disputed the merits of the Mollenauer and Castle Shannon teams during the game. The younger lad said he drew a knife to protect himself against Ditkin and that the latter was stabbed as he dashed toward him. His older brother was taking his part, he said. The Sun-Telegraph will not publish the names of the boys under arrest.

Aide to Armstrong Given Weights Post

Roy G. Walters, secretary to former County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, today was appointed an inspector in the Bureau of Weights and Measures, it was announced. Murray Snyder, clerk in the Commissioner's office, was re-appointed to his former position as the Commissioner's reorganized.

Coast Police Battle 'Hunger' Marchers

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—(INS)—After a clash with Los Angeles police in which knives, bricks and clubs were wielded, less than 100 men today had started a "hunger march" to San Francisco to interview Gov. James Rolph, Jr., who announced he would not receive them.

Entire Block Burns At Wilkes-Barre

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 4.—(INS)—Fire destroyed a business block of eight establishments here with loss estimated at $100,000.

Those* Charming Barclays

BRITTLE holly leaves, shreds of tinsel littered the floor. Yes, Christmas is over, thought Sally Harmer, surveying the holiday's after-math.

Behind the radio lay a fallen Christmas card. She stooped to pick it up. "Why, it's from the Barclays, and I never saw it before!" Sally's conscience smote her . . . she hadn't sent them a card!

She turned it over—a snapshot of herself, taken last summer by the Barclays at the shore! Sally smiled with pleasure and quickly read the friendly message: "Come and see us in Baltimore—telephone when!"

"Isn't that just like them?" Sally murmured, reaching for the telephone. "They're friends worth keeping!"

Can't Enforce Rum Law, Officer Says

DETROIT, Jan. 4.—(INS)—Police Commissioner James K. Watkins, under fire for alleged flagrant holiday violations of the liquor laws, said it was "almost impossible" to enforce the Volstead act in Detroit. He explained:

"Detroit and its citizens are mostly wet. There is little or no respect for the prohibition laws here."

1,500 HEAR SUIT OVER PRIEST

Greek Catholics of the Pittsburgh district, 1,500 strong, milled through the corridors of Common Pleas Court today to attend the hearing on an injunction to restrain the Rev. Peter Molchany from conducting services in St. John's Greek Catholic Cathedral in Homestead.

The injunction was obtained by Bishop Basil Takack of the Pittsburgh diocese, who recently had transferred the young clergyman to St. George's Greek Catholic Church in Aliquippa. The Rev. Molchany refused to leave the Homestead church, of which he is assistant pastor, according to the petition.

3 HANGED, HUNT NURSE'S SUITOR

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(INS)—The identity of a nurse maid's sweetheart was being sought by police here today in an effort to solve a triple hanging.

The man was seen leaving the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Heindel shortly before Mary Roth, 25, the family maid, hanged the Heindel's two small sons and herself.

When the Heindels returned to their home Saturday night they found their son George, 8 months, hanging from his crib. His four-year-old brother had been hanged from a partition in the nursery, and the maid was found hanging in a basement closet.

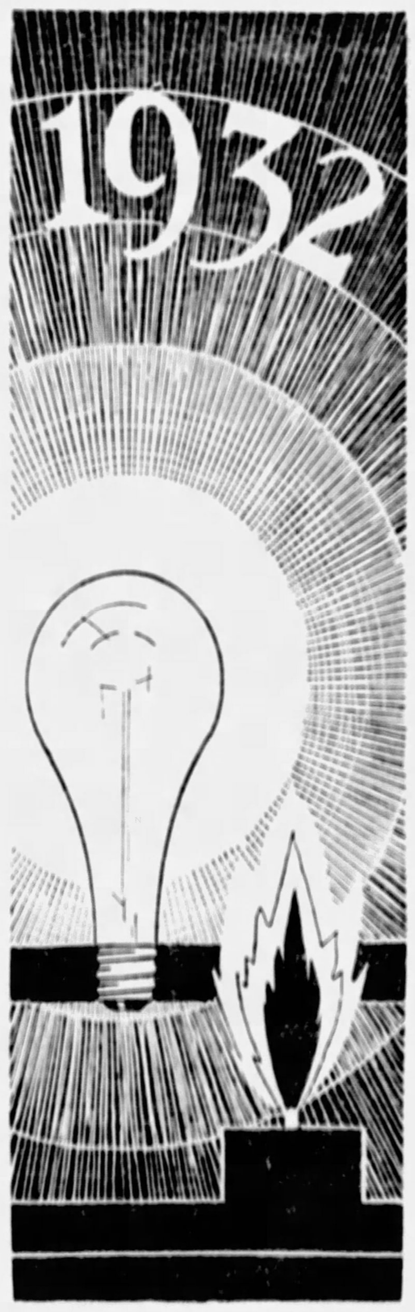
● HAVE FAITH IN PITTSBURGH



CONFIDENCE

Confidence in things fundamentally sound is the keynote to recovery from such an economic recession as we have just experienced. Pittsburgh, situated in the heart of the world's leading industrial center, is always the first to recover. Its gigantic commercial and industrial enterprises influence buying habits all over the world, and even a moderate upward trend in world markets is enough to promote prosperity here.

Have confidence in Pittsburgh . . . Pittsburgh constantly goes forward! Expansion programs for Pittsburgh enterprises are foretelling now a richer, fuller period of prosperity than we have ever known. Extensive improvement and development plans for 1932, within our own organizations, are indicative of the favorable aspect of the coming year. There is ample cause for all of us to greet the New Year with confidence.

MRS. M'CORMICK FIGHTS HOOVER

ROCKFORD, Jan. 4.—In an editorial dictated by its publisher, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, former congressman-at-large from Illinois, the Rockford Register-Republic today urged that the Republican Party disregard precedent and select a presidential nominee who has "a fair chance of winning."

The editorial declared that President Herbert Hoover is "not a popular leader" and asked "why Hoover should not be freely discussed and impartially weighed as a seeker for public office."

It emphasized confidence for 1932, as expressed by the Democratic leaders, and asked consideration for "hundreds of thousands of Republicans who will either vote against Mr. Hoover or refrain from voting for him." The editorial, recalling what it called the convention steam roller that gave an unpopular candidate the renomination in 1912 with party disaster, suggested that if a "considerable number of Republicans would prefer to have Mr. Hoover step aside as a candidate, the party leaders should select somebody else."

Franco-Soviet Pact Declared in Making

FILM SHOCKER :-: Studio Will Produce Another Thiller :-: AMUSEMENTS :-: News and Notes About Stage and Screen

James Whale Has Two Hits At Box Office So His Bosses Like Him

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4

Having acquired a taste for shockers while directing "Frankenstein," James Whale has sold Carl Laemmle, Jr., on another thriller.

It is "The Old Dark House," J. B. Priestley's novel of mystery and murder.

Universal's scenario department is now at work on the story and production will start as soon as [illegible] completed. "The Impatient Maiden." This director stands high in his studio's favor right now. His two pictures, "Waterloo Bridge" and "Frankenstein," have been box-office hits all over the country.

Laemmle Jr.

Ever since Clark Gable's phenomenal rise to popularity, the fan magazines have been bothering him for his life story.

The other day he was contacted by an unusually persistent writer. After the scribbler had gone Gable shook his head.

"I only hope people will be as interested in my future as in my past," he exclaimed fervently.

LATEST GOSSIP

Bert Wheeler is running around these days with Jesse Carroll. His separation from his wife is the friendly [illegible]. Among other things, she "owns the family lowa car. . . . Walter Ramsey, western editor of "Silver Screen," and Dorothy Manners, fan magazine writer, will be married in April. Both people are planning many parties for John McCormack's concert tomorrow and for Doris Kenyon's song-recital on January 12. Frederic March is allowing Paramount to use the likeness of his father for a scene in "The Black Robe." Henry Barndollar, stage artist, painted the portrait from a photograph. . . . Joseph Steele, publicity man for Richard Barthelmess and author of a series of magazine articles on Hollywood, now emerges as a motion picture producer. He has completed a three-reel featurette, "Gaunt."

Doris Kenyon

Milstein in Concert Tuesday Night

Nathan Milstein, Russian violinist, will give the fifth Mary Beegle concert in Syria Mosque tomorrow evening. His program will include the Vivaldi Sonata in D major, the Bach Sonata in G minor for violin, Prelude and Allegro, by Pugnani, arranged by Kreisler; Melodie by Gluck; Tarantella and Chant de Roxanne by Szymanowski; and Variations and Polonaise by Weber, arranged by Samuel Dushkin.

Friday evening in Carnegie Music Hall, Mary Wigman, dancer, will appear for the first time in Pittsburgh.

Metro News Features Volcano

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Mount Kilauea, Hawaii's famous volcano, is erupting again and pictures of the awe-inspiring spectacle are presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, now being seen in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters, with a vivid description by the Globe Trotter. With Kilauea on a rampage, Mauna Loa, sister volcano, which spread death and destruction over the island four years ago, is smoking and threatening to join her companion in a new outbreak. Thousands of natives are fleeing their mountain homes.

President Hoover is greeted by 750 members of the National Newsboys' Association, sponsored by the Hearst newspapers of Washington, in an impressive ceremony on the White House grounds. The boys arrive with their own band and after their spokesman reads a New Years message, the President is presented with a badge of membership. He thanks the boys for their expression of good will.

New Year's celebrations are shown in Havana, Cuba, and at Lake Placid, N. Y. Thousands of Americans have gone to the Cuban capital for the holidays, and Hearst Metrotone News shows them celebrating in the Cuban-esque manner. At Lake Placid old-fashioned sleighs with four horses attached glide through the glittering mantle that covers the ground. There are also scenes on the tobogran slide.

Santa Claus left a live lion cub, 5 months old, in the stockings of Betty and Bobby Bench, 3 and 7 years old, of Long Beach, Cal.

King Victor Emanuel, of Italy, attends the final exhibition of the graduating class of the Tor di Quinto cavalry school at Rome, where the riders vie in feats of daring as they send their mounts over terrific obstacles.

Unusual pictures come from Spandau, Germany, where members of the Reichswar show how carrier pigeons do their bit in war time. They carry automatic cameras attached to their breasts with which pictures are made as they fly over the "enemy lines."

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Sevening in the Nix." "The Chocolate Soldier" will be restored to life by a dose of Vivienne Segal and Charles Purcell, and we'll say they are not hard to take. Wednesday and Saturday afternoons as usual are for folks who want to go places and see things in the daytime.

Small Timer says cakes are the cause of all the evidence of vitality, vigor and vim we see in faces of the gals—cakes of rouge.

* * *

"Strange Interlude" comes to the Alv. at 5:45 afternoon. According to the schedule, the actors will stop acting at 7:50 so the customers can go out and bite something. Assuming that hunger will have been appeased by 9 action will then be resumed on the stage and will be continued until Eugene O'Neill's famous nine-act drama has come to an end. Mabel Julienne Scott plays the Nina Leeds role this time. The production has played two engagements in Chi. this season.

* * *

Small Timer says the average New Year resolution is like a kiss over the telephone—all sound and no power.

* * *

You know that in "A Christmas Carol" Dickens stresses the fact that Jacob Marley is dead. Unless that is understood nothing marvelous can come from the story. So, in this little one tale please remember that Ray D. Owen is the principal character. Westinghouse is entertaining newspaper boys at the first of the Westinghouse salutes to great industries. There has been a little speech of explanation and the wireless set is going. Enter Harvey Gaul, the world's breeziest critic of the drama, a little late for the preliminaries, but very cheerful despite that. He takes a seat near the cigarets. He makes a friendly remark to a table neighbor, who appears strictly non-interested. Nothing like that has ever happened to Harvey before. So he gets up, with determination just oozing, and turns off the radio!

Small Timer says the silk-worm should be called Charity because it covers a multitude of shins.

Torch Song

"Because, O God! because he loved me once,
Because, sometimes, he speaks aloud my name,
The moon, for her, has hidden its fair face,
Her heart is racked with grievous, torrid flame.

"Because, long years ago, he held me close
And thought, perhaps, that I was comely made,
And sought for love in arms that weren't hers,
Is this the reason she is so afraid?

"Doesn't she know? I thought all women knew,
That man is always seeking new delight,
And the past, what can it ever hold for him
But apoline dreams of Midsummer's Night?

"Oh, take the present, let the past go by,
Take all the pulsing moments while you may,
No memory can ever bring them back,
And nothing matters but the living day!"

—R. P. S.

Sid Parrygraph

"And may all your children become acrobats — and be snubbed by stage hands!"

Heheheh

New York is to have a new subway—and Izzy Elinson says he'd like to be the first passenger—just so he can see what those ads look like without mustaches.

Never Thought of That!

Dr. E. Luezato says:

"Apropos the gag about Hoover asking Mellon for a nickel to phone a friend and Mellon replied: 'Here's a dime—call up both of them!'—I'd like to know Mr. Winchell—just who are those two friends?"

Novelty

The only thing different on Broadway these days is an honest man. He wears darkened spectacles and his shirt front reveals a sign which reads:

"Please Help. Almost Blind."

Post Mortem Scoopee

For several years a well-known local editor has been collecting data to prove that many current works of art, books, plays, etc., are not created by the persons to whom the credit is given, but unknowns who get little money and no glory. One prominent authoress, he asserts, never wrote a line in her life, and he claims to have documentary proof.

He has never revealed any of the names, but has incorporated the whole story in his will — over 400 pages long, and insists upon waiting until death puts him beyond the reach of criticism or libel suits.

Origin

The new and popular type of warbling ditties made famous by Cab Calloway, of Rochester, Baltimore and Harlem, is called "Scat Singing" (ho-dee-doh—hi-dee-dye) and comes from "Scat!" to shoo pussy-cats.

The singing is like the howling of cats, hence the name. The first "Scat-Singing" contest, incidentally, will be held at a dance hall on Broadway in January. Calloway will win without trying. Lay you 20 to 1.

Of All Answers!

Harry Hershfield told a gag in 1918. It made the rounds and still is amusing, but it is stale.

George Jessel now uses it and claims it as his own, and Hershfield was so advised. He put up a squawk.

Jessel's lawyer, however replied:

"My client only claims the revival rights!"

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for the Best Similes of the Year: Sidney M. Davis: As improbable as a racketeer suffering from senility . . . Patricia Kelley: There are as many platinum blonds on B'way as there are teeth in a fine-comb . . . G. S.: As talkative as a chambermaid (darn 'em!) outside your hotel room door at noon on Sundays! . . . Bert Lytell: Punctual as a radio appointment and envious as Fanny Ward's schoolgirl chums.

CLUB TO HOLD BOOK DAY

MISS MARIE LOUISE BICKFORD MISS SYLVIA ROBERTSON

Two members of the younger set who'll settle down to informal parties and philanthropic work now that the formal winter season in Pittsburgh's uppermost society circles has waned.

College Members To Contribute Volumes

One of the most unusual events of the College Club this month will be the book party to which the junior activities committee is asking club members to "be a book and bring a book," on January 12. The books which are donated will go to the circulating library. There will be prizes of course, for the human books, and one for the member guessing the identity of the masked speaker, who is to talk on "The Three Worst Mystery Stories of the Year."

"The Romance of Pittsburgh's Industry," "Drama From the Actor's Viewpoint," "Old Coverlets and Quilts," "European Gypsies," are the extremely diverse topics which the club will hear discussed at the Friday afternoon meetings during January. This week H. W. Graham, head of the metallurgical department of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, will give the talk, which will be illustrated by unusual motion pictures showing the spectacular processes of the industry.

George W. Smith, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, will give the drama talk next week and will also read Barrie's little play, "The Will." Mrs. Roswell H. Johnson's talk concerning the quilts and coverlets is dated for the twenty-second and the members are asked to bring their ancestral beddings and to be prepared to give information about them. Andrew A. Marchbin, a native of Switzerland, who has lived among gypsies in order to study them, will sum up the results of his study when he speaks before the club the last Friday of the month.

* * *

Tomorrow evening in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel the Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women's Club will sponsor a recital of compositions by Marianne Genet, local musician. A quartet composed of Charles W. Hall, Aden L. Lother, Herbert Rhinehart and Brabazon Rutherford will be included among those presenting the program.

* * *

Mrs. David Wilson Kuhn, first vice president of the Alliance Francaise, will be hostess at a library tea in her Woodland road home Saturday afternoon. Also on the January calendar of the Alliance is a reunion of the Group des Causeries, for which Mrs. Samuel E. Drescher, of South Negley avenue, will be hostess on January 18.

The evening lecturer for this month is Prof. Andre Morize, of Harvard University, who will speak Wednesday night, the twenty-seventh, in the Twentieth Century Club.

NEW ENSEMBLES DESTINED FOR GREAT POPULARITY

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 4. — The assembling of new ensembles goes on apace, nearly every house in Paris having decided to play the ensembles for a winner. You will like many of the new models, several having already been purchased for the other side for early spring exploitation. You will find the new models most wearable, extremely simple, but with a wealth of clever detail that belies the apparent simplicity. Both frock and coat are usually linked by an excellent detail of trimming such as pin-tucking or empiecements. Wool is popular for both coat and frock, the frock often using the same weave but in a much lighter weight.

* * *

BY ALL MEANS include such an ensemble in your spring wardrobe requirements. You will find that you will be practically living in it, as it is good for almost any daytime occasion, that is, if you choose a model that is not too elaborate. But then, the overdone type of ensemble is almost all done so far as the smart woman is concerned.

* * *

THE SKETCH today shows a most delectable ensemble, a Philippe et Gaston model. The coat is of black dull-surfaced woolen fabric and is trimmed with fine tucking on the belt and pocket flaps. The flaring sleeves are slashed to the elbow and rows of tucking make a lining trimming. The prettily shaped collar and lower half of the sleeves are richly bordered with black astrakan. A coat of this type could easily be worn with almost any frock, as well as with its own smart stable mate, the black and white frock also depicted. The frock has a bodice of thin white woolen and the same fabric in black forms the skirt. The wrists of the long, tight sleeves are banded in black and vivid green with a heading of pin-tucks just above. This trimming is repeated just above and below the wide leather belt. Intricate piecings at the top of the skirt terminate lower down in two wide box-pleats. The softly tailored note is very obvious in this ensemble, and you will find that it will be a feature of many of the new ensembles making a bid for spring popularity.

A&P ESTABLISHED 1859 "WHERE ECONOMY RULES"

(Personal)

In times like these when money isn't as plentiful as it might be, the old superstition that the best food must be high in price is wearing pretty thin.

For now that women are thinking harder about getting their money's worth, more and more of them are wending their way to A&P stores. And once there, they simply can't believe that good food is expensive.

ARMS PARLEY FAILURE SEEN

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—A warning to the American people not to expect too much in the way of accomplishment by the general disarmament conference to be held at Geneva in February was sounded today by Undersecretary of State Castle.

Castle addressed the Women's National Republican Club on a general review of the foreign relations of the United States, particularly during the past 12 years while he has been connected with the Department of State.

He intimated the administration does not expect results from this conference comparable to those obtained from the naval limitations conference held in Washington in 1922 or the London naval conference held in 1930. The reason, he said, was that the United States had little in the way of armaments that it can cast upon the sacrificial altar of world disarmament for the purpose of inducing other nations to follow suit.

ARMY MAN DEAD, WOMAN LINKED

GILROY, Cal., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The body of Lieut. William J. French, U. S. A., was found near his motor car in a field south of Gilroy yesterday by police directed to the scene by Mrs. Gertrude McEnroe, of Kansas City.

Officers said they believed Lieut. French killed himself. He had been shot through the head. The pistol was found on the running board of his car.

Mrs. McEnroe said French apparently had become insane, and sought to kill them both. She said she fled after he drove his car into a tree. French was on leave from Fort Devon, Mass.

FIRE ROUTS 200 FROM HOTEL

BOSTON, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Two hundred guests at Hotel Clarendon and scores of occupants of nearby tenement and apartment houses in the south end fled to the street in their night clothes in near zero temperature today as flames raged through Odd Fellows' Hall.

Two firemen were injured and more than a score of others narrowly escaped when they raced down ladders on the Tremont street side of the building just before part of the wall gave way.

The fire, which raged for three hours before being controlled, did damage estimated at $200,000.

Fall's Parole Plea Again Before Board

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Albert B. Fall's plea for parole once more is under active consideration by the Federal Parole Board. The Justice Department said today final action awaits "more information" from the New Mexico State Prison at Santa Fe, where the former Secretary of the Interior is serving a year and a day for accepting a bribe.

An impression that the aged New Mexican will be paroled is discernible here, although without official substantiation.

3 Jailed Officials Penalized $533,000

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Penalties totaling more than a half million dollars were entered today against three former Commissioners of Luzerne County who are serving jail terms as a result of graft convictions.

Surcharge orders amounting to $533,000 were announced by the court this morning against former Commissioners David M. Rosser, Leslie Harrison and Patrick J. Conway. They are in the county jail completing a two-year term imposed for conspiracy and graft in the construction of roads and other county expenditures.

Graham to Open Safety Talk Series

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

WCAE STUDIOS presented a spectacular picture today with hosts of celebrities signing autographs, answering questions and making themselves otherwise as informed as possible about the radio station which tonight becomes officially the "Voice of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph" . . . A stupendous celebration starting at 10 o'clock tonight will run until 12:30 or 1 o'clock tomorrow morning, and part of it, from 10:30 until 11:30, will be echoed from coast to coast over the network of the National Broadcasting Company . . . Speakers will be William Randolph Hearst, Jr., publisher of the New York American; Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company; Harry M. Bitner, publisher of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and president of WCAE, Inc., and Clark Kinnaird, of the Hearst Radio Service.

200 Artists

Topped with Erno Rapee's 35-piece orchestra and Duke Ellington's band, the program of entertainment reads like the choice selection of a radio fan in paradise and includes 200 artists, among them Bugs Baer, Russ Westover, Men About Town Trio, James Melton, Reinald Werrenrath and his mixed chorus; Mabel Jackson, Nick Lucas, Sisters of the Skillet, Marion Harris, Pito Coral, Countess Olga Albani, Gene and Glenn, Tom Waring, Jack Turner, Russell B. Wise, Walter Winchell, Milt Gross and a galaxy of local favorites—Kay Kronick, Riggs and Moke, Raymond Griffin, Charlotte Shallenberger, Lawson Sisters, Paul Gannon, Neal Mowry, others.

The program will sparkle in variety, opening at 10 o'clock with Duke Ellington's band, shifting to WCAE Studios, then to New York and back to Pittsburgh for the most rousing, colorful party on the air for some time.

* * *

Question a Day:

I was much interested in your story about a Radio City for Pittsburgh. Why wouldn't it be a good idea to have in this 12-story building a separate room where prospective buyers of radios might see and listen to the different models without making it necessary for them to visit many different dealers?—Anthony R. Dormont.

Answer—The Electric League of Pittsburgh is coming to your rescue. Their floor plan for new headquarters in the Gulf Building calls for an acoustically treated room, about 40 by 60 feet, where 45 radio models of manufacturers will be on display in small booths for prospective customers to inspect and operate.

* * *

Studio Lights:

Brotherly love merges into a miniature radio war over Pittsburgh air waves every afternoon when Louis Kaufman on WCAE and his brother, Ted Kay, on KQV, bid for the attention of 2:30 listeners . . . Lou with news reports and Ted with his "Dream Lover" . . .

The three R's now mean Rudy, Roxy and Radio . . .

B. A. Rolfe is an enthusiastic yachtsman, but can't swim a stroke . . .

Virginia Kendrick, titian contralto, of Brookline, now studying in Philadelphia, is to be featured soon on a Curtis Institute broadcast . . .

Columbia plans to salute 16 nations in Europe with a special program next Monday afternoon . . .

Some meanie at a local studio sent the office boy all over town the other day searching for a box of 15-minute station breaks . . .

Dick Powell calls Jack Keough the "master of surgery"—because he's always cutting up.

* * *

Today's Tid Bit:

A retired pugilist scheduled to make a talk over NBC recently, suffered microphobia at the last minute and was unable to utter a coherent sentence. Finally he took a punch at the microphone and retired in confusion.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

MISS JANE FRANKLIN, charming lady and expert reporter, stood in the New York Hall of Records and spoke to the elevator starter. There are 64 reasons why I will not reveal the nature of the story on which she was working. The first one is that it makes no difference, and the other 63 do not matter.

At any rate, as Miss Franklin was passing the time of day with the handsome starter, a middle-aged woman walked up to him and smiled sweetly. She hesitated for a moment, murmured her apologies to Miss Franklin, and then talked.

"Pardon me!" she asserted. "Could you be so kind as to inform me on what floor Mr. Walter Reade works?"

The starter wrinkled his brow.

"Walter Reade?" he repeated. "Walter Reade. I just can't seem to remember where I . . ."

The woman didn't wait any longer.

"I met him a couple of years ago," she went on. "And he said that because I worked in the neighborhood I should stop in some day and have lunch with him."

At that point the starter remembered. He snapped his fingers.

"It just hit me, lady," he cried. "Of course I remember Walter Reade. He used to work in the Surrogate's Court."

The woman nodded.

"That's right," she said. "That's the man. What floor is he on?"

The starter shook his head.

"I'm sorry, lady," he said, "but Walter Reade has been in his grave for 12 years."

The woman stepped back.

"Is that so?" she cried. "Well, in that case, I guess I'll have to eat alone." . . .

ALONG similar lines—and an absolutely true story is something that took place in an undertaking establishment on the West Side the other afternoon. I call it a something because I don't know how else you can describe it.

They were preparing for the burial of a gentleman whom I will call Randall. Mr. Randall had spent some 55 years on this earth and had left behind a wife and several children. One of the sons was standing in the establishment when a woman entered, approached the coffin and shed copious tears.

The son approached the woman and introduced himself. The woman dried her eyes.

"I saw the notice in the paper," she sighed. "So you're his son, eh? What's your name?"

"Bill Randall," was the man's reply.

Again the woman sighed.

"How terrible," she muttered. "And how is Nancy taking it?"

The son looked puzzled.

"Nancy?" he repeated. "Nancy who?"

"Why," replied the lady, "your sister, Nancy Randall. You know, the one who is a school teacher in Trenton, N. J."

The son was duly apologetic.

"You must have the wrong family," he returned. "I haven't any such sister."

The woman stiffened and began to walk rapidly toward the door.

"That's a fine thing," she cried angrily. "The wrong family! And I came all the way from Brooklyn, too!" . . .

* * *

THEY'RE telling of a group of stage women who decided to form a bridge club. The first two meetings weren't exactly successful. So, at the third meeting, the president arose.

"Ladies," she said, "it has been moved and seconded that we shall no longer talk while our games are going on. What shall we do with the motion?"

"I have a suggestion," spoke up one faded ingenue. "Let's discuss it while we play!" . . .

DOPE? DRUGS? NO

THIS COUGH SYRUP IS SAFE FOR CHILDREN

SO MANY cough syrups must rely on DOPE for their results. Dope—that means opium—morphine—chloroform—ether—and other drugs.

Smith Brothers' Triple Action Cough Syrup contains NO DOPE. Not a trace of it. Instead of dope, the far more effective—but SAFE—principle of "Triple Action" does the work. It (1) soothes the throat, (2) loosens phlegm, (3) clears air passages . . . Even a stubborn cough stops—fast! . . . Children (and husbands) like the taste! Only 35c.

"Little Minnie came home from school screaming and crashing. I had never seen her with such a cold, and I was worried! I put her to bed and gave her some Smith Brothers' Syrup. It was simply wonderful. Within an hour her throat felt better, she slept well and in the morning she was fine and gay again." Mrs. E. Austin, 2121 University Ave., New York.

'RED' FOES OF FATHER COX MARCH FINED

Police Seek Leader in Job Crisis

POLITICS

Mansfield's Path No Boulevard of Roses

By MARK SHIELDS

Senator William D. Mansfield, who is also a County Commissioner and has just been elected Republican county chairman, shortly will be able to appreciate the trepidation of the gentleman who slithered across Niagara Falls on a tight wire. Indeed, the Falls-crossing hero was treading a broad and stationary boulevard compared to the path which looms ahead of the triplicate official from McKeesport.

Mark Shields

There was too serene an air of purity and reformation about the county committee meeting Saturday to be convincing. Resolutions adopted virtually repudiated the regime of the late County Commissioner and County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong. The assembled committeemen viewed with horror—which I believe was generally sincere—slick work at the ballot box, they declared unanimously for permanent registration, and for setting the last registration day 30 days before an election.

Efforts to get these matters adopted by the Legislature have never succeeded, due to the obstruction by gentlemen who control some of the committeemen who voted so enthusiastically for reformation on Saturday.

* * *

Senator James J. Coyne 'Present and Not Voting'

There shoul' have been some significance to the absence of Senator Joseph G. Armstrong, son of the late chairman, who wanted the job to go to Boyd Euwer, and who might have had it himself with the assistance of County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, who is not enthusiastic about his colleague taking the post. There was added significance to the absence of Commissioner C. M. Barr, and even more to the pronouncement of Senator James J. Coyne, when called upon for a felicitous speech, that he was "present and not voting."

Coyne also sought the post supported by W. L. Mellon, but retired before the meeting day.

Mansfield must be credited with enunciating a clear-cut reform program. Now comes the task of enforcing it. He must encounter the suspicions of McGovern and Barr, who will not forget he was an apparent party to the deal which attempted to put across Dave Lawrence, Democrat, as a County Commissioner, a peculiar role for a Regular Republican leader.

Coyne tried the same thing, but there the sympathy between Coyne and Mansfield ended. The resolutions passed Saturday are so much applesauce to the forces which have followed Mayor Kline. They are wrong and Mansfield is right on this subject. As the new chairman said, there must be a party rehabilitation here, and it must be under guidance which is not steeped in election chicanery.

* * *

Mansfield's Resignation From Senate Predicted

Here is a prediction that Mansfield shortly will resign from the state Senate. It is unthinkable that for two years he will continue to hold that office, at the same time being County Commissioner and County Chairman. After the next special session—conceding there will be one in March—the Senator will step aside in time for his successor to be chosen at the April primary. In these days of unemployment a politician who attempts to hold too many jobs would lose effect. And the Senator-Commissioner-Chairman does not need the money.

In discussing chairmen, it is time something was said about the state chairmanship, to be decided at the next state committee meeting. Gen. Edward Martin, the present chairman, a job handed on to him by W. L. Mellon, and retained when Gov. Pinchot tried to oust him in 1930, may desire to retire.

In that event Senator John McClure, of Delaware County, is in line for the position. McClure has worked closely with the state organization, has the friendship of Philadelphia, and good connections in the central and western part of the state. He probably wouldn't fight Martin for the job, but state leaders react pleasantly when the subject is broached. McClure probably would have more firmness than Martin, more decision, and has quite as much personality and suavity.

* * *

Leaders Distressed When Mrs. Pinchot's Mentioned

The present leaders of the state committee grow more distressed over President Hoover with every mention of the Fifteenth Congressional District, where Mrs. Pinchot already is a candidate against Congressman Louis McFadden, whom the President says shall not come back to Washington because of attacks on the executive.

Under the circumstances the state committee will support either Senator Fred Gelder or Louis A. Howell, of Wayne County, brother of Senator Johnny Howell. Committee leaders frankly admit that the conditions are advantageous to Mrs. Pinchot, and they blame Mr. Hoover and the thin skin he presents to criticism. In appointments they have been having trouble with the administration for some time.

As between Gelder and Howell, it appears the latter is the choice

WAGE CUT PLAN TO SAVE FORCE UP FOR VOTE

Political Control Resented By Officers Now Facing Dismissal or Lower Pay

With Pittsburgh's policemen voting today on the advisability of working seven days a week for six days' pay so that the department could be maintained at full strength, patrol stations throughout the city buzzed with proposals for new police systems and a reorganization of the Fraternal Order of Police.

Officers in many stations voiced their disapproval of the proposal insofar as they would lose the benefit of the salary raise won last year after six years' effort. Attention was called, too, to the fact that during the agitation to have Council rescind its New Year's Day forced retirement plan, nothing had been done for the sub-patrolmen.

One patrolman declared that the policemen's organization should not be controlled by politics, and that it should be just as strong as the big labor unions.

While the policemen were voting on the enforced retirement plan, a committee from the City Firemen's Protective Association was to submit a similar proposal to Director James M. Clark, of the Public Safety Department.

Walsh Orders Police To Protect Pupils

Afternoon patrolmen were ordered to report at noon today and hereafter instead of 2 p. m. to protect school children at crossings. They will report off duty at 8 p. m., instead of 10 p. m.

Police Supt. P. P. Walsh also directed that radio and cruising cars, as well as all available morning patrolmen and motorcycle officers guard the children on their way to school in the morning. Walsh said this plan would remain in effect until the police force, cut in the economy drive, can be reorganized.

JUDGE SCORES 11 ALIENS FOR ATTACKS

Police Break Up Attempt to Incite Jobless Starting Trip to Capital Tomorrow

Police early today revealed an alleged Communistic attempt to break up Father James R. Cox's jobless march to Washington, as scores of its participants left old St. Patrick's Church yesterday after hearing final plans for the journey. It starts tomorrow.

Eleven alleged Communists were arrested when they distributed literature attacking Father Cox and his project among residents of Shanty Town, a hamlet of makeshift homes inhabited by men who are being fed by the Father Cox relief fund.

M'CLOSKEY TALKS

Police said that while the literature was being distributed, speakers urged the men to desert Father Cox whom they accused of being in league with moneyed interests.

The 11 were fined $10 with the alternative of 10 days in jail by Magistrate J. J. O'Connor in Penn Avenue Police Court today, charged with violating a city ordinance. All said they were not citizens, although some had lived in this country for 20 years.

Magistrate O'Connor said:

"You are the kind of people we want to get rid of. We don't want you here. I am sorry I can't make the sentence more severe."

AID IN JOHNSTOWN

Eddie McCloskey, who today was inaugurated Mayor of Johnstown, was the speaker at a meeting in the church at the invitation of Father Cox. He said that while he and his seven brothers are "dry" he would attack prohibition from any platform from which he spoke.

He also promised to aid the march of the jobless and said he expects hundreds of Johnstown men to join the caravan there.

Father Cox spoke to the group, telling what he hoped would be accomplished by the march.

From Earl C. Dean, Homestead adjutant, came word that 60 automobiles and 15 trucks would leave Seventh avenue and Amity street at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning to join the main body in Pittsburgh.

CALL EXPLAINED BY GARLAND

Declaring he had been called by District Attorney Andrews T. Park to testify before the grand jury to a matter "entirely foreign to the Franklin Savings Bank situation," Councilman Robert Garland today made a statement "that my friends may know the true circumstances of this matter," saying:

"I was called before the grand jury last Wednesday with regard to some testimony that had been given, on a matter entirely foreign to the Franklin Savings Bank situation. As nothing may be said by me as to what transpired before the grand jury, the reporters jumped to conclusions and printed a story that I am a borrower at the Franklin bank, the inference being that I am accused of borrowing money deposited by the city Treasury at that bank, and mixed up with the political ring—that it is asserted got the money.

"I have a loan at the bank secured by collateral; I also have a fair sized deposit there (not withdrawn before the bank closed as it is stated, some were).

"The original note with collateral for a fairly large amount was given over 15 years ago, then a joint note of my brother and myself was substituted; afterwards entirely assumed by me. It has been steadily reduced until only a small fraction of the original amount remains.

"I have, therefore, been doing business with the bank many years and insofar as being mixed up, even in the slightest degree with the present investigation, I desire to say that I never met Mr. Bardolph, the president of the bank, or Mr. Friedman until a few months ago when these gentlemen appeared before a committee of Council on the garbage contract matter.

"In order, therefore, that my friends may know the true circumstances of this matter, which can be corroborated by District Attorney Park or Mr. Taylor, receiver of the bank, and to stop the repetition of open and veiled accusations as to a councilman, as well as mentioning my name, that have been appearing daily in the newspapers, I make this statement."

Roosevelt Pardons Former Pittsburgher

James A. Wynne, 30, of Reading, a former Pittsburgh boy, serving his third year on a six to 13-year sentence for manslaughter in New York, was the only inmate of Sing Sing granted a holiday pardon by Gov. Roosevelt.

Wynne was a son of the late Owen J. Wynne, a former superintendent of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company. After a visit with his widowed mother, Mrs. Catharine G. Wynne, of Reading, Wynne planned to return to his wife and child in Dayton, O. Wynne was convicted of slaying an elevator operator.

Crash Brings Two Into Traffic Court

Vincent Carricato, 29, of 108 Aspinwall, and George L. Rodds, 23, of Butler, will appear in Traffic Court today on a charge of reckless driving as the result of an automobile collision in East Ohio and Thirtieth streets early today. Rodds and his companions, Harry Scherry, 20, and Harold Dietrich, 26, both of Butler, were injured slightly.

WAIF FOUND IN AUTO ADOPTED

The blue-eyed baby boy, found wrapped in towels and a sweater in the back seat of an automobile in Aliquippa two months ago, has found a home on Home avenue in Avalon. Sewickley Valley Hospital nurses who mothered the baby were reluctant to see him go. They said:

"We shall miss him very much. He was such a bright and good baby, we couldn't help loving him."

Adoption of the child by an Avalon family was made through the Beaver County Courts, after a search by police for the parents of the abandoned child proved futile. The new-born child was left in an automobile owned by Charles Villa, of 1002 Carrol street, Aliquippa, while the machine was in his garage, October 27, last.

Hazelwood Butcher Held Up in Store

Warning the clerk against any outcry, an armed bandit escaped with $280 taken from the cash register in the meat market of Nathan Schulman, 4831 Second avenue, early today.

The clerk was alone in the store when the bandit entered with drawn gun.

East Pittsburgher Injured in Fall

John Zahar, 39, of 308 Glosser street, East Pittsburgh, is in serious condition in Braddock General Hospital with a fractured skull suffered early this morning when he fell down the basement stairs of his home. Zahar is the father of five children and unemployed.

4 COUNCILMEN TAKE OATH

The four newly-elected members of City Council—Charles Anderson and Robert Garland, incumbents, and P. J. McArdle and William J. Soost were sworn into office today. Mayor Charles H. Kline told them:

"No one has the right to criticize public officials in a derogatory manner. Those who do are narrow-minded.

"I know of no bossism in this Council. I have never given any orders to Council that were not for the best interests of the city.

"The improvements of the Kline administration speak for themselves.

"I never was a boss. I followed in the wake of others.

"Your position in council is not envious at this time because of the widespread depression."

President of Council John S. Herron was re-elected to that office; retiring Councilman Robert J. Alderdice was named budget controller with a $5,000-a-year salary, and W. Y. English was named chairman of the rules committee with Councilman Anderson and M. J. Muldowney as his associates.

Y. W. C. A. FUND DRIVE PLANNED

A number of conferences were planned for this week by the leaders of the Young Women's Christian Association annual campaign for $133,000. Plans will be made at the meetings for the raising of funds for the association's budget needs, in a city-wide canvass beginning January 14.

Mrs. Albert Burchfield is general chairman of the executive committee and is being assisted by Miss Mabel Lindsay Gillespie, and Miss Ida M. Allerton. Mrs. W. J. Gilmore is in charge of women's teams and Mrs. Thomas Hannah is assisting her. Miss Esther M. Hawes is executive directors of the Young Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh.

Police Here Balk Girl Adventurers

Two California (Pa.) High School girls who left home to see the world got as far as Pittsburgh.

They were found in Dinwiddie street by city detectives at the home of a cousin, a nurse, with whom they were spending the night. Instead of continuing their jaunt the girls, Virginia Roberts, 17, and Eleanor Wilson, 17, await arrival of relatives to return them to their homes.

Funds Gone, Chicago Reopens Schools

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Chicago's schools opened today following the Christmas recess, despite the empty treasury. Immediate relief for the schools and other tax-spending agencies was expected as members of the General Assembly returned to Springfield today, determined to put through legislation providing for the funding of taxes and the reorganization of the assessment machinery.

Painter Collapses While at Work, Di

John Gardner, 50, painter of 3529 Fleming avenue, North Side, collapsed on a scaffold while painting a house on Camp Horne road this morning and died a short time later. Heart disease was given as the cause of death in a coroner's report.

McKeesport Blast Laid to Price War

WILL ROGERS SAYS

S. S. PRESIDENT TAFT, VIA SAN FRANCISCO, Jan.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I just found out who China like: It's the Democrats at home. Individually they are smart, likeable and efficient, but let two get together and they both want to be president. Formed a new government at Nanking yesterday and nobody would let the other be head man, so they called it a committe government. Now everybody is president. There's a new idea for you Democrats.

Boy, 8, Modest After He Saves Sisters in Fire

Modestly denying that he had done anything unusual, Walter F[illegible]gan, Jr., 8, son of a Carnegie Steel Company engineer, was a hero today to his sisters, Ruth, 7, and Mary Lou, 2.

While his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Flanagan, of 3248 Eastmont avenue, Dormont, were attending services in St. Bernard's Church, Walter discovered a blaze in the basement of the Flanagan home.

Hurrying to the second floor, where his sisters sleep, he put their bathrobes on them and led them to the street, then notified Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Newcomb, neighbors, of the fire.

An overheated furnace was the cause.

MEXICO'S NEW CONSUL HERE

The development of oil utilizes thousands of acres of barren land into fertile and productive farmland for its citizens is Mexico's answer to the unemployment problem, according to Senor Luis Perez-Abreu, new Mexican consul to Pittsburgh.

Seven immense irrigation projects are now under way in the southern republic and hundreds of Mexican subjects in the Pittsburgh district have been attracted to their homeland to become landowners, the new consul said.

Senor Abreu reopening the Mexican consulate here after it had been closed a month, presented his credentials to Mayor Charles H. Kline and Gov. Gifford Pinchot today. He asked the operation of the Pittsburgh police

MURDERS HERE SHOW GAIN

Death by violence showed a slight increase in Pittsburgh during 1931, the annual report of the city detective homicide squad, issued today by Chief Frank Ferris, reveals.

In 1931 there were 55 murders, in 1930, 52; 1929, saw 71 slayings; 1928, 83. There were 164 total fatalities in 1931, compared with 137 in 1930.

There were only four unsolved murders in 1931, Ferris reported said, against six in 1930.

A decrease in suicides was recorded, with 18 in 1931 and 26 in 1930.

THORNBURG CAR CUT FOUGHT

A committee of representatives of Crafton, Ingram, Thornburg, the Twenty-eighth Ward and Robinson Township was organizing today to obtain information to assist residents in those communities in their fight to prevent the Pittsburgh Railways Company from discontinuing regular service on the Thornburg shuttle line. The Thornburg line runs from Crafton to Thornburg.

The committee plans to check on the valuation of property owned in the communities served by the shuttle line and to obtain an estimate of the number of car riders. This information will be used when protests are made to the Public Service Commission. The railways company has announced that regular service will be halted this week and cars operated only during rush hours.

Attorney William A. Blair presided at the meeting which was attended by more than 200 property owners. A request will be sent to the railways company asking for through service on either the Crafton or Ingram cars in place of the shuttle line. It is planned to ask the support of Gov. Pinchot in the fight.

Find Man Carrying Stolen Typewriter

Luke Taylor, 33, without a home, was arrested at Elm street and Wylie avenue early today carrying a portable typewriter and an overcoat. He told police he had obtained the loot from the sixth floor of 531 Wood street. Taylor was released from the workhouse in December after serving a year's sentence for prowling in the Mayfair Hotel.

1 HELD, 2 FINED IN FIRE ALARM

Because he pulled a fire alarm box to summon help when he says he saw a general fist fight moving his way, early today, James Finn, 32, 134 Tamasco street, was held for court on a charge of placing a false alarm by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today.

Thomas Carlin, 30, of 5801 Broad street, and Patrick Quigley, 28, of 617 Thompson street, arrested with Finn, were fined $10 or 10 days in jail. In making his decision, Rothenberg severely reprimanded the trio, saying that one piece of apparatus was nearly wrecked on the way to the "fire" and that each false alarm costs the city $250.

Suspect Arrested In Counterfeiting

Joseph Anderson, 28, of Cleveland, O., arrested here early today by city detectives on request of federal authorities, was turned over to government secret service operatives by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today. Detectives said he is wanted in Detroit on charges of passing counterfeit $10 bills.

Annexation Asked At Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 4.—Firemen of Brownsville and South Brownsville today began circulating petitions for the consolidation of the two boroughs.

Rib-Tickling Episodes In Auto License Plates

The award of preferred numbers in automobile licenses has been handled by the Governor's office this year, and some rib-tickling episodes have occurred. One of the most ironical concerns the "44" which was the property of James M. Benn, of Philadelphia, former Public Service Commissioner, and bright target of Pinchot in his anti-utility crusades.

This year Mr. Benn's "44" was given to Attorney Harold Evans, of Philadelphia. Mr. Evans, it should be explained, represented the Governor in the House utility investigation, and helped grease the skids which brought about the resignation of Mr. Benn, thrown to the wolves by the regular Republicans when the battle became hot.

In olden days, the victor took the sword and armor of an opponent. Now he gets his automobile license.

Fifth Avenue Man Robbed, Imprisoned

Two gunmen held up Carl Lats, of 2515 Fifth avenue, as he entered his garage in Moultrie street, early today and robbed him of $40. The bandits "ed after locking Lats in his garage.

He freed himself half an hour later and reported the robbery to police.

OBITUARY

Boyd Funeral

Funeral services for James Findley Boyd, 66, oil operator and head of J. F. Boyd & Co., who died Saturday, will be held tomorrow afternoon at his late home, Fifth street, McDonald. He was born in Sandy Lake, Mercer County, and had been a resident of McDonald 42 years. He was a director of the First National Bank of McDonald and had a controlling interest in a number of oil leases. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church of McDonald and for many years was active in Masonic and Odd Fellow circles. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Mary Oldfield Boyd, three brothers, West Boyd and Newton Boyd, both of Sandy Lake, and Walter Boyd, of New Castle, and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Haggerty of Sandy Lake, Mrs. George Eckles of Sharpsville, and Mrs. Lena Osborn, of Grove City. Burial will be in Robinson Run Cemetery.

Helme Funeral

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian E. Helme, 56, mother of the Rev. Frank G. Helme, pastor of the Bellevue Christian Church, were to be held at 3 p. m. today in the parsonage, 725 Clinton avenue, Bellevue, in charge of the Rev. H. Glenn Carpenter, of Beaver. She died Saturday in Suburban General Hospital. Interment will be in Friendship, N. Y., tomorrow. She was born in Cuba, N. Y., November 3, 1875, a daughter of Gurdon and Hannah N. Gallup, and had spent most of her life in New York, coming here with her son six years ago. She leaves another son, Harry G. Helme, of Washington, D. C., and a daughter, Violet, of Bellevue.

William Glick

William Glick, 73, died last night at his home, 1540 Shady avenue. Funeral services will be held from the home at 2 p. m. tomorrow, interment being in Westview Cemetery. He leaves five sons, Peter, former Secretary of Labor and Industry of Pennsylvania; David, Deputy Attorney General of Pennsylvania; A. L. and Naaman Glick, all of Pittsburgh, and Frank Glick, of New York, and two daughters, Miss Etta Glick and Mrs. Earl Hepner, both of Pittsburgh.

Bible Seller Hunted, In Danger of Rabies

GALAA, Va., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Grayson County authorities want to tell a Bible salesman that he may develop rabies.

Raymond B. Ebner, who sells Bibles, was bitten by a dog a week ago. He bound up the wounds on his hand and continued about his business. Since then a State Health Department examination revealed that the dog was suffering from rabies.

Auto Derails Trolley, Escapes Unharmed

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Many a motorist has pictured such a thing in a day-dream, but it was a reality with W. R. Hain. He ran his automobile into a street car, knocked the trolley off the track and escaped without a scratch to the auto.

have a Clear Skin—
rich, red blood cells will help you

"I WAS determined to have a clear skin."

"Some one told me of S.S.S. . . . now I am so glad the last pimple is gone."

Of course you want a clear skin. Everybody does. It helps you win and hold friends. It makes for greater popularity.

Whatever treatment you may use for your complexion, remember the important fact that skin health depends upon the right number of red-blood-cells.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

You should know that S.S.S. has the distinct advantage of being composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form . . . it is Mother Nature's formula.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today? The larger size represents a price saving.

Builds Sturdy Health

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

K. OF C. SESSION HERE PLANS FOR JUBILEE

National, State Leaders Of Order Pave Way for Cardinal Gibbons Tribute

Plans for the golden jubilee celebration and Supreme Council convention of the Knights of Columbus, to be held the last week in August in Washington, were completed here yesterday at a meeting of national and state officers of the organization in the William Penn Hotel.

During the celebration in Washington, according to present plans, a statue of the late James Cardinal Gibbons, gift of the Supreme Council, will be unveiled.

Knights attending yesterday's meeting represented 12,000 members in Western Pennsylvania.

National and state officers and district deputies who attended the meeting and spoke were Luke E. Hart, of St. Louis, supreme advocate; James A. Flaherty, of Philadelphia, supreme counsellor; John R. P. Magill, of Philadelphia, state deputy; Bernard N. Hanlon, of New Castle, state secretary, and members of the Western Pennsylvania Board of Deputies, consisting of Edward Lee Bladel, of Crafton, chairman; Joseph A. Hensler, Homestead; Leo A. McMullen, Bellevue; Carl E. Sunder, Jeannette; J. Regis Byrne, Scottdale; Robert E. McCreary, Monaca; William B. Cushing, Donora, and Peter P. Capitola, New Castle.

STORMGROUNDS MIDDIES' PLANE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A Chicago-Washington transcontinental passenger plane put in at Burgess Field at Uniontown yesterday because of threatening weather.

The passengers, five mid-shipmen returning to Annapolis from holiday vacations, and one woman, continued their journey by train.

The pilot, Harold S. Johnson, of Chicago, was to resume his flight to Washington today, weather permitting. Johnson came down at Burgess Field after straying off his course in the heavy atmosphere.

Miss Mary Watt, of Chicago, was the woman in the plane. The midshipmen were C. A. Fleischoli, H. E. Tuble, E. B. Carson, J. E. Talbott and F. W. Brooks.

FINLAND PLANS RUM PROFITS

HELSIGFORS, Finland, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Final returns in Finland's referendum on prohibition were to be made known today with receipt of votes from a few scattered districts of Lapland. Virtually complete returns showed:

Wet—303,181 men; 217,626 women.

Dry—96,355 men; 110,478 women.

Wine and beer—5,681 men; 4,648 women.

Minister of Justice Kivimaeki indicated he would not call a special session of the Legislature to act on the prohibition law, but would rather appoint a committee to report to Parliament in February.

It was probable the government would provide for a licensing system taxing liquors heavily to help balance a weak budget.

Former Inland Steel Vice President Dies

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—John W. Lees, 68, retired vice president of Inland Steel Company, died at his home here yesterday after a year's illness with cancer. Lees, a native of Allentown, Pa., worked at Muncie, Ind., Joliet, Ill., and Cleveland, O., with the Carnegie interests and then the United States Steel Corporation before coming here in 1903 to build the Inland company's mills.

Paroled Convict Forces His Way Back to Cell

CANON CITY, Col., Jan. 4.—(Universal.)—George Coghlan was back in the state penitentiary today after two weeks of freedom.

Coghlan, old and alone in the world, was paroled two weeks ago, given a $5 bill, and new clothes. But he was unable to get a job and for two days went without food.

He beat his way back to Canon City from Denver on freight trains, appeared at the prison and demanded that Deputy Warden Roy Best admit him. He threatened, if rejected, he would commit a crime to compel the officials to take him back as a parole violator.

Control of Industry Urged for Recovery

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(Universal.)—That national control of basic industries and, eventually, international economic planning would solve trade problems is the belief of Jennie Lee, youngest member of the last British Parliament, who is in this country on a lecture tour. She said:

"The competition between industry and industry and country and country which is dragging down wage standards, trying to snatch a temporary advantage, is causing an ever-widening gulf between production and consumption."

WOMAN TRAPS KIDNAPER

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—A woman's wile and her artful responses to an amorous kidnaper were expected to result in the indictment of six members of a $500,000 ransom gang here today.

Mrs. Georgia Gecht, pretty blonde wife of Dr. Max Gecht, revealed today how she kept an appointment with Gus Sanger, a member of the gang which kidnaped her and her husband.

The infatuation of Sanger led him to phone Mrs. Gecht and make an appointment with her. She notified police and kept the appointment, accompanied by detectives. Sanger was captured and his confession led to the arrest of the other five members of the gang. According to police, the Gecht abductors are also involved in other kidnapings.

Executives Attend Bakers' Convention

H. B. McNeal, president of the Western Pennsylvania Bakers' Association, and Fred C. Haller, of the Haller Baking Company, headed a Western Pennsylvania delegation to the midwinter convention of the Pennsylvania Bakers' Association, opening today in Harrisburg. McNeal and G. A. Wilde, of Pittsburgh, are members of the executive board of the state group.

AGED RECLUSE FOUND SLAIN

CLARION, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The body of Jerry Graham, 78-year-old recluse, was found on his farm at Lickingville yesterday. He had been slain. The body was discovered by Robert L. Graham, a son, who is Justice of the Peace at Lickingville. Clarion County authorities are investigating.

Graham's body was bruised, but death was believed to have been caused by exposure. Grass near the body had been trampled. One sleeve of Graham's sweater-coat had been torn off and one of his boots was found several feet away.

An oil lamp in the house had been lighted but had burned out. Police believe Graham had left the house to get coal when attacked. Neighbors heard a car drive away from the house about midnight Saturday.

There have been several unsolved slayings in the Lickingville district in recent years.

Record Holder Plans London-N. Y. Hop

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(Universal.)—J. A. Mollison, holder of the Australian-Britain flight record, and Capt. J. P. Saul, Irish navigator, plan a trans-Atlantic flight from London to New York in June or July, according to a Dublin dispatch to the London Daily Express. They expect to fly an American made plane similar to the round-the-world craft used by Post and Gatty.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

No Person Ever Understood Another Perfectly

He knows all about "women," to hear him tell it.

He's seen 'em all, bright, dumb, good, bad, gorgeous and gooty—and he'd like to fall in love, but somehow—

Well, we'll let him tell it.

"My Dear Miss Martin:

"Here is a question that may be you can answer. I hope so. It's bothering me.

"What is this thing called love?

"That is a question I have been trying to answer for the last several years, but to no avail. I can recall only a few times [illegible] of contact with [illegible] who know me [illegible] seldom, in a thing [illegible] members of the opposite sex are concerned.

"Mind you, I'm not [illegible] trying to [illegible] an impression of egotism. [illegible] would be contrary to my nature [illegible] of such things and [illegible] in my [illegible] am just trying to explain.

"I understand somewhat [illegible]ly. I have come in contact with all sorts from the most beautiful and the ugliest to the most homely and the stupidest. (The latter seem to be common amongst them.)

"Now to get to my real problem. I will present a case that will illustrate my experience in general with women.

"I met a girl, fun and sunshine personified, and what [illegible] liked her a great deal. I kept seeing her for a few months after which she called me, in an ardent love [illegible] the New Year couldn't have felt the same for her? Why? Oh, why. She was the envy of all my boy friends and yet I couldn't love her or for that matter anybody which naturally led to the end of the friendship that existed between us.

IS ROMANTIC

"I feel as if I were immune to love and yet I imagine it is the most wonderful feeling in the world. I am really a very romantic person which aggravates my feeling of unhappiness. I do crave for a great love that would blend into an ethereal bliss.

"Please tell me how the spark of love that lights my heart—if I do possess such a spark—can be kindled into that heavenly flame. Why I have been able [illegible] MAC

DOESN'T UNDERSTAND ALL

"That may sound like just a story to you, young fellow, but that's the key to a lot of folks who find this world an empty, disappointing place and I suspect it's the key to you.

"Other words, you've been so much like Mac, and how Mac suffered his stuff that you have had and from left for a [illegible] thought about anyone else [illegible] what you want to [illegible] love, you first have to fall out [illegible] yourself. You'll have to forget your self-pity [illegible] understand all about women, no human being ever understood all about another human man or woman, and real [illegible] about other people as living, flesh-and-blood creatures. You'll have to interest yourself in your wonderful self but in the charm and mystery, the needs and dreams of other human beings.

"Then and not until then will you know what love is, or be able to feel it.

Many Forms of Flattery Are Inspired by Self-Interest, Says Fay King

I WONDER IF HE THINKS I TAKE THIS SERIOUSLY!
EVERYTIME HE COMES IN TO SEE MY BOSS, HE OFFERS ME A POSITION WITH HIS FIRM
THAT DON'T MEAN A THING, DEARIE!
IF I DIVORCE MY HUSBAND, I COULD MARRY ONE OF HIS PALS!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

There are many forms of flattery all of which are inspired by self-interest.

The wife of a famous man finds herself receiving many attentions from his friends to ingratiate themselves with him.

Some such wives have found to their sorrow that when they divorced their famous husbands all this flattery was simply transferred to the husbands' new wives.

Many a girl who has believed the flattering offers of positions by those who came into her present place of employment, has found them just so much hooey when she left her position and expected to accept one of these offers.

It is always well to bear in mind just how much attention is more due to your position than to your self personally.

Avis Arlen Offers to Go to Party in Mary's Stead

Noel's head went up in the fashion of an animal startled by hunters as Mary advised him to "beat it" because his father and Miss Arlen were coming toward him. He had been so absorbed by his outburst of anger that he had not seen the breaking up of the other group as Mary and I had. Philip Veritzen was losing no time in "collecting his family," the intention he had voiced to Lillian and me but a few minutes earlier.

I saw Noel send a quick glance, almost desperate in its expression, at Avis Arlen coming toward him on his father's arm, her face lifted with a caressing smile to the older man's face. Then, all the anger suddenly drained out of him, he turned back to Mary.

"Please don't go, Mary," he said, and in his voice there was an agony of appeal which could not but help to soften any girl. It was the tone a man uses only to the woman he loves best, and I was meanly glad that not only Noel's father but Avis Arlen also were near enough to hear it. It must have been the crowning humiliation of Miss Arlen's evening when she had made so strenuous an effort to make us believe Noel was but a "captive chained to her chariot wheels," to have him show so plainly that he was in love only with Mary.

I think it never was given to Mary to receive more balm for wounded pride than in that moment when, ignoring the other girl as if she were not in existence, he voiced his plea to her, regardless of anyone's hearing. The light mockery left her face and she put her hand upon his sleeve.

"I wish I could stay, Noel," she said, and her voice was a caress, "but it's too late now. I've promised and I must go, but I'll hurry back, honest, for—I'll want to."

"Couldn't I go in your place?" Avis Arlen said eagerly, and I wondered if I had imagined the venomous look she had given Mary, so swiftly had it come and gone. "Of course, I couldn't propose this if you wanted to go, but if you really wanted to stay here, I could take your place. I don't suppose it matters to the hostess which particular girl comes up to her house party."

For a fraction of a second I was speechless at the persistence and audacity of the girl in the face of the almost insulting reproof I had given her but a few minutes before for her attempts to go uninvited to Helena Brixton's house party. Nothing less than brutality, I realized, would have any effect upon her. She had sense enough to perceive that whatever hold she had established upon Noel during their summer association was broken, although I was sure that her vanity would not permit her to let him go without a determined effort to re-establish the attraction which I knew she had had for him in Mary's absence, but just now her heart was set upon one thing, the chance to go to the house party where she would meet Yale boys and West Pointers.

"I'm sure it wouldn't," Noel put in. "Mary, you'll stay and let her go, won't you?"

My treacherous sympathies veered suddenly toward Noel, although I had been much annoyed at him because of Avis Arlen. But not even to give him and Mary the opportunity for reconciliation could I turn Avis Arlen loose upon the Brixton house party. If it lasted more than three days I knew that she would find herself quite forsaken, for she had no quality which would keep a boy's admiration. But for the first day or two I knew that she would antagonize every girl and upset the equilibrium of most of the boys by her crude but effective efforts to attract them. The schoolgirls who were to be the guests were too inexperienced to cope with her method of warfare and I steeled my determination that she should not accomplish her purpose.

"I'm sorry, Noel," I said quickly but firmly, "but that is impossible. Mrs. Brixton has planned her house party with special reference to Mary. I could not resist giving Noel this little thrust. He deserved it I considered for his folly in being attracted, if only temporarily, by Avis Arlen during his summer's absence. "And I cannot permit any interference with her plans. You must go up there with Marion tomorrow morning, Mary. You know that her mother and father are quite counting upon it."

I pointed my words with a meaning glance at her, and saw that she suddenly remembered the sole condition upon which Harry Underwood had consented to Marion's joining the house party. For Mr. Underwood knew what we had so far been able to keep from Lillian, that Charles Owen, Samuel Brixton's rascally half-brother, was planning to marry Marion for some nefarious reason of his own.

"Yes, I know." Mary's resigned voice would have befitted a martyr headed for the stake. "I must go."

"And so must we." Philip Veritzen's voice struck in. I had expected him to speak before, for he had been an interested if disapproving auditor of the colloquy. But he simply had listened silently, his eyes going from one to the other of the two girls. He did not look at all toward his son, but Noel started at his words as if he had been flicked with the end of a whiplash. He did not answer his father, however, but spoke breathlessly to me.

"Is there no other way?" he asked. "Must Mary go?"

Household Hints

Ink stains may be removed with milk if treated at once. It is important that the milk should be damped or washed out with hot water after, otherwise this may leave a stain.

The dull patent leather bag will look like new if rubbed with a little milk and then polished with a dry cloth.

If you will just beat the soap flakes into a foam with the egg beater it will mean fewer flakes for the same purpose.

Sunshine Is Rich Bank to Draw Upon for Health

Out in the western states the Indians live closer to nature than "we who in walled cities dwell." They have many beautiful beliefs about the sun. In the jewelry they make, the rugs and baskets they weave, they create designs depicting the sun and its rays. They believe that even the possession of these symbols will bring some of the blessings the sun can give.

Anyone who has been on the wide desert of Arizona sees evidence on all sides of the sweetness of life under any conditions. It is remarkable how the many sufferers from painful disease cling to life when it seems about to be taken. In that land are many people depending on the sun alone to give them back their health.

Against the barren masses of rock rising from the hot sands of the desert there are tiny huts that look like birds' nests. They are crude shacks, many of them put up by those who have been sent to the desert for the sunshine that means restored life.

Here they live, many of them in privation and loneliness, spending their days in the sun beside their small houses. Those who are well enough to bring provisions and supplies, care for the ones unable to move beyond their circle of sunshine. And the beautiful part of it is that the sun does give them the health they pray for if they are patient enough. They must do their part—that of living quietly with their faces turned to the healing sun.

No matter where we live, we can have the sun if we try. Too much time cannot be spent in its light and warmth while we are well. Then we build up and maintain a high state of resistance that refuses to be broken down by the demands a busy life makes on our strength.

Through the winter we go about wrapped in warm clothing, huddled in closed rooms. This is the season when great care is needed. In the spring, we open our windows to let in the warm air and sunshine. This is the time when we need to let the sun touch us, searching out the starved and depleted cells of the body that need this invigorating light. It not only increases our vitality, but it lightens our spirit to feel the sun upon us.

Mothers who are particular about giving their children a sun bath sometimes forget that they, too, would be benefited by a period in the sun. This would serve to restore tired nerves.

Busy people in offices and stores will find a walk in the sunshine will do much to guarantee health. Even in cold weather, a day at the beach or in the country when it is possible, is a practice far better than waiting for a vacation. Anyhow it is a mistake to try to do in a brief time what should be done each day.

Those who pay the high price of health, even the fear of losing life itself, are forced to turn to the sun and learn to do it gratefully. Because sunlight is free, we are inclined to overlook it. It is a rich bank from which we may draw abundantly each day and know our account is never overdrawn.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Pre-emptive Bids

As is often the case with technical terms the dictionary's definition of a pre-emptive bid fails to express the meaning attached by experts to the term "pre-emptive." The dictionary calls a pre-emptive bid "a greater number of tricks than the minimum allowed or required by the rules in order to shut out probable bids of the opponents."

Under this definition an opening bid of two would be classed as pre-emptive whereas the bid is wholly conventional, an opening bid of three is also conventional. From the expert's standpoint a pre-emptive bid is an attempt to appropriate the contract by a higher declaration than either opponent dare overcall, or else it is a game bid because it is feared that partner may not be able to assist a lower bid made upon cards probably worth game unless partner is trickless.

Whatever the reason for making a pre-emptive bid to best serve its purpose or at least, sufficiently high to oblige an adversary to bid game to overcall it. Three-Spades is not wholly pre-emptive since 4-Clubs or 4-Diamonds may overcall without bidding for game. Four-Diamonds is pre-emptive because it requires a game bid in spades, hearts, clubs or no-trumps to overcall. Three No-Trumps may be considered pre-emptive because the announcement of such great top honor strength ordinarily deters an opponent from attempting to overcall.

An excellent term to add to your vocabulary is "definite tricks," which are those that should be won by a declarer facing a trickless dummy, regardless of what opponents may lead. To be safe a pre-emptive bid should never be made for more than three tricks in excess of the definite tricks countable. The first hand shown below is worth eight probable tricks but facing a dummy but only six definite tricks can be counted. If not vulnerable you may risk going down four tricks doubled (600 points, less 100 honors), or you may restrict yourself to the semi-forcing declaration of 2-Spades.

The next hand shown has the same count for definite tricks and probable tricks (eight), accordingly, it is admirably adapted to a pre-emptive bid of 4-Hearts.

♠2 ♥AKQ107642 ♣75 ♦84

The next hand has only ½ more probable trick than definite tricks, as it counts within two tricks of game it should be bid 5-Clubs.

♠ ♥A ♣KQJ109643 ♦A964

If defensively strong, overbidding definite tricks by three can be justified only when probable tricks considerably exceed them. Although probable tricks exceed definite tricks by three on the next hand, facing a trickless dummy, there is such a small game chance that I would neither open with a bid of 4-Spades nor 3-Spades. I advise an opening bid of 2-Spades.

Bridge Prizes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At our last meeting a guest, who was kind enough to fill in for an absent member, had the highest score, which entitled her to first prize. "A" contends she should not have accepted the prize, but I think she was right in taking that which she won. Is it not passe for guests to refuse prizes? L. B.

"A" is distinctly not all right in her point of view about this. Of course the guest, especially under these circumstances when she was doing a favor, should keep the prize that she won. I should think that the other members would feel embarrassed if she didn't keep the prize.

A Graceful Thing to Do

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have known a lady older than I for quite some time. Recently she lost her position and I felt as though it would be nice to write and tell her how sorry I am.

A friend of mine says it wouldn't be right to do so. If I am not wrong, will you please tell me how I should word my letter? FRANK.

Indeed it would be a most gracious thing for you to do to write to this friend and tell her how sorry you are that she has had this misfortune of losing her position and that you hope that very soon she will find something that will be just what she would like to have.

Get WELL and keep WELL

New Kind of Relief For Colds, Headaches, Neuralgia, Sour Stomach, Acid Indigestion and that Tired, Run-Down Feeling

Now you can say "Good-Bye" to everyday aches and pains. Here's a new way to get rid of those common ailments that drag down your health. Now science has developed a remarkable Effervescent Alkaline tablet that gives amazing relief. It is called ALKA-SELTZER, because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink that first relieves the pain and then removes the cause of the trouble. It is the newest scientific way to get well and keep well.

Most of our everyday aches and pains are the result of excess acid in the system, caused by too much acid producing food. To keep healthy the body must be slightly more alkaline than acid. Rich food, over-eating, late hours, overwork or over-indulgence, all cause EXCESS ACIDITY. Then your resistance goes down—vitality is lowered and you become an easy victim of colds, headaches, stomach disorders and other common aches and pains.

ALKA-SELTZER is the newest, scientific way to correct that excess acid condition. It is the safe harmless way to relieve the pain and remove the cause of these common ailments. An ALKA-SELTZER tablet or two in a glass of water makes a sparkling anti-acid drink . . . . . a bubbling glassful of alkaline salts your body needs to reduce excess acid. There's nothing like it for sweetening the stomach and correcting digestive troubles. And the way it relieves the pain of Colds, Headache, Neuralgia and other everyday ills will amaze you.

PIRATES TO GET RIGHT PREPARATION

ONE THING THAT the Pittsburgh club will not lack for the start of this year's pennant race in the National League is proper preparation. In modern major league baseball it takes more than a long training trip and a string of ordinary practice games to put a team on the right edge for the April hop-off. It requires repeated testing against opposition approaching the sort to be encountered during the regular season, and in that respect the team with which George Gibson will begin his return engagement as Buccaneer manager will be better prepared than any previous crew in Corsair history.

George Gibson

Training camp games with the Yanigans and practice jousts with minor league outfits of low classification are all right in their way, but they do not serve the full purpose of pennant race preparedness. When the opposition is weak the big league regulars do not get the proper kind of workouts. They do not get the right tests on attack or defense for their hitting or base running or their own pitching. The weak spots that must be braced are not shown up and the players are not spurred on to reach the form they must attain for the real flag fight.

OPPOSITION OF THE caliber that only other major league clubs or the strongest minors can offer is necessary to bring the best results. Batting against inferior pitching will not train the eyes and swings of the hitters for the high-grade hurling they must face when the regular season begins, nor will success against weak minor batsmen prove that the flinging staff is what it should be in order to cope later with the smart stickers of the big show.

From those important angles the Pirate training trip schedule announced by Secretary Sam Watters for 1932 is an ideal one. It provides for seven games with the Cubs, two with the Giants, three with the Tigers, four each with San Francisco, Oakland and the Missions, two with Los Angeles, one each with Fort Worth and Dallas and two with Memphis.

THAT MEANS 30 practice games all told, 12 of them with major league clubs, embracing both National and American League opposition, 14 with Class AA clubs and four with Class A clubs, with only one day's work to be lost through traveling in addition to the day always left open before the start of the season.

Unquestionably it is the best preparatory program ever drawn up for the Pittsburgh club, and there should be no better conditioned team than the Pirates when the field goes to the post on April 12.

IF THE LONG trip of the Pitt basketball team to the Pacific Coast had done nothing else, it would have to be credited with having at least given Coach Carlson a good line on his material. He has learned a lot about his players that will be helpful for the remainder of the season. While it cannot be said that any of them proved actual flops, there were several instances in which substitutes, before the trip rated merely as excess baggage, developed in a fashion either to win ranking as regulars or come through to win games for the Panthers after replacing first-stringers.

Charley Hughes

WHEN THE SQUAD departed, Don McCamant, of Sharon, was a regular guard, and on his play in the Temple game promised to be a real star. As the scores, with the exception of that in the Purdue game, would indicate, McCamant did not play bad ball, but in the last few contests Charley Hughes, of Hollidaysburg, a big, husky sophomore, has been doing the starting.

Hughes was regarded as very raw material when the practice sessions started. He had been a good player in his freshman year but from all appearances was not of the type suitable for the Carlson system, which requires speed rather than ruggedness.

IT APPEARS, HOWEVER, that Hughes, when pressed into service on the trip, came through in a manner quite unexpected, which, after all, is just another tribute to the Carlson method of coaching. Incidentally, the shooting of Hughes into the lineup may mean that Carlson has tired of seeing his team take most of the bumps.

At any rate, it is significant that in two consecutive games three Panther players went out for having four personal fouls called against them—Hughes twice and Don Smith once—whereas only seven were ejected in 79 games previously during more than three full seasons.

GOOD CONTROL AND lots of stuff will avail a pitcher nothing if he telegraphs what he's going to throw. Before he can make good in the majors he must learn to hide his intentions from the batter, to keep the ball out of his line of vision as long as possible, and to throw his fast ball, slow ball and curve with seemingly the same motion. A case in point is that of Bobby Burke, young Washington lefthander, who contributed two flossy numbers to last year's record in a no-hit game against the Red Sox and a three-hit success against the Tigers.

PERFORMANCES OF THAT kind would indicate that a hurler had no weaknesses worth mentioning, yet there was a serious flaw in Burke's work that kept him from winning more than eight games for the year. He couldn't hide the ball and the smart hitters were enabled to keep their eyes on it from the time he started his windup.

They knew what he was going to pitch and were prepared for it. But there's going to be a change this year, Burke says. He realizes his shortcoming and is going to practice all spring on a motion designed to keep the batter blind. American Leaguers predict that if he succeeds in this he will rank with the best pitchers of the season.

THE OLD ARGUMENT as to why John L. Sullivan, in his days as heavyweight champion, failed to meet Peter Jackson, the great Australian Negro fighter, is having one of its numerous revivals in veteran boxing circles after a lapse of several years.

It has been charged that Sullivan evaded a meeting with Jackson by drawing the color line, but now there rises in defense of the old champion Tom O'Rourke, former manager of Joe Walcott, George Dixon, Tom Sharkey and others, and one of the most prominent fistic figures of yesteryear. O'Rourke asserts that, far from dodging Jackson, John L. actually signed articles for a fight with him and that it was not due to any fault on the part of the champion that the match failed to come off.

Tom O'Rourke

"I CAN EXPLAIN the relations between Sullivan and Jackson because I remember them well," O'Rourke said. "Capt. Cooke, editor of the Boston Police News many years ago, was the eastern representative of the California Athletic Club, which alone held finish fights in San Francisco. Cooke finally arranged a match between Sullivan and Jackson for the California A. C. Sullivan signed the contracts or articles in Cooke's office and they were forwarded to the president of the California club. Before the letter arrived at San Francisco, two waiters in the Golden Gate Club, of that city, engaged in a fight which resulted fatally for one of them. That put a stop to the boxing game in San Francisco for more than a year, and when the California club reopened it did not go in for championship bouts, the result being that the proposed Sullivan-Jackson affair was abandoned. I saw the articles signed by Sullivan and mailed by Capt. Cooke."

Sports Editor.

A carnival of boxing bouts featuring underliners rather than headliners—and therefore giving promise of some sterling action—has been prepared for the fans of the Pittsburgh district in the Motor Square Garden ring tonight.

Tug Phillips

Six bouts in all are listed, presenting a galaxy of young hopefuls bidding for recognition. None of the performers is of the haughty, prima donna type. All they ask is a chance to display their wares, and, granted that, they figure to give and take to the best of their ability.

Tug Phillips, of Fayette City, a rugged welterweight, who has met some of the stars around the country and has not appeared often in bouts hereabouts recently, boxes Tiger Joe Randall, Negro, of Elizabeth, in the eight-round main bout. Randall is noted as a canny boxer and a good right hand puncher. He has boxed all of the leading local welterweights.

BAXTER VS. THOMAS

Backing up this top number are four six-round bouts and a four-rounder.

In the semi-final is Charley Baxter, of Columbus, O., and Pittsburgh, a good 19-year-old lightweight with a punch who has lost only two bouts in close to 70 starts. He made his local debut by suffering a knockout defeat by Frankie Bojarski, of Erie, but came back to beat Andy Andrucci and Johnny Dunn. Tonight, he meets Joey Thomas, a seasoned performer recently returned from a triumphant tour of Australia and New Zealand, who is best remembered here for a victory over Johnny Datto at Hickey Park.

Danny Delmont, of Chicago, stablemate of Thomas, encounters Eddie Brannon, rugged local Negro lightweight; Billy Holt, hard-hitting Negro welterweight, of Homewood, takes on Davy Grove, pleasing puncher of the North Side, and Ross Fields, Weirton (W. Va.) southpaw socker, battles Jackie Wilson, local Negro bantamweight, in the other six-rounders. Walter Ketchel, local middleweight, and Tod Murphy, of McKeesport, are in the abbreviated opener, scheduled for 8:30.

Between Rounds

Moze Butch, Oakland southpaw bantamweight, already is in the midst of strenuous training for his 10-round main bout with Al Brown, the world champion, at the Garden next Monday night. It is Moze's big chance, although Brown's title will not be at stake.

Two six-round bouts will complete the card for the first show of the year in McKeesport, Thursday night. Tony Martino, classy Brackenridge featherweight, and Ettore Grande, Filipino veteran, of Buffalo, are in the main bout, and Young Rudy, of Charleroi, and Bunny Meinrath, of Alliance, O., has the other 10-round bout of the double-window bill.

Tug Phillips boxes Jack December in the main bout of a show in Cleveland Friday night.

Long Reviews Sport Parade Over WCAE

James J. EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY: THE NEW YEAR—When Julius Caesar arbitrarily fixed the length of the solar year at 365¼ days, he exceeded it by 11 minutes and 14 seconds. Pope Gregory XIII, in 1582, ordered 10 days suppressed to correct the error, and the addition of a day each fourth year except centenary years that are not divisible by 400. The first Julian year began on January 1, 46 B. C. Between then and the beginning of the Christian era there were only 11 intercalary days, and the astronomical surplus of the year 1 B. C. forever will remain unaccounted for. The retardation of 29 hours 9 minutes 54 seconds, at the end of 1931, then consists of the surplus of 1 B. C. (5 hours 48 minutes 46 seconds), the surplus of 1929, 1930 and 1931 (17 hours 26 minutes 18 seconds) and 331/400 of the intercalary day in the year 2000 (1600-1931) (19 hours 51 minutes 36 seconds) less the adverse portion of a day which will be omitted in the year 4000 (13 hours 56 minutes 46 seconds). Thus the astronomical year 1932 began at 9 minutes 54 seconds past 5 a. m. on January 2. THE BALL OF PINS AND NAILS—From the world's greatest packing center comes a curio which shows graphically how nature takes care of unusual articles in the diet of a cow. A neat ball, the size of a baseball, was formed of brass pins and a few small nails, consumed by the cow during her lifetime. The ball was taken from the cow's stomach in the slaughtering house of Swift & Co., Chicago, and now is in the possession of Louis F. Swift.

SPORTSMEN'S MEET OFF

The general meeting of sportsmen from all parts of Pennsylvania, which was to be held here tonight, has been indefinitely postponed, pending the outcome of a conference between Gov. Gifford Pinchot and members of a special committee appointed at a special meeting of leaders of sportsmen's organizations here Saturday.

The men appointed to the committee, who will confer with Gov. Pinchot this week regarding matters which prompted recent members of the State Game Commission to resign, are Colin Reed, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs; Philip G. Platt, president of the Izaak Walton League of Pennsylvania; J. G. Crevelling, president of the United Sportsmen of Pennsylvania, and Lincoln G. Ruth, president of the Conservation Council of Pennsylvania.

RUTH TO GET '32 CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. — Babe Ruth, baseball's highest salaried player, will learn this week how much the New York Yankees are willing to pay for his services for the 1932 season.

The home run king, who received $80,000 last year, will receive his new contract either today or tomorrow.

Since the close of the 1931 season, Ruth's salary has been an outstanding topic in baseball. It is generally agreed that the Babe will have to take a cut of at least $10,000.

SPORT VIGNETTES

When is a knockout not a knockout? . . . In other words, has a second of a knocked out boxer the privilege of throwing a towel into the ring to rob an opponent of credit for a full-fledged knockout victory? . . . Fans in Western Pennsylvania had two instances crop up in New Year's Day shows, in one of which the second officially got away with his act and in the other of which the referee was too alert to his duties to be fooled.

The first case occurred in the Fritzie Zivic-Paddy Gilmore opening bout at Motor Square Garden, in which Zivic battered his foe to the floor in the fourth round after having had him in bad shape previously, with the fans clamoring for the bout to be stopped . . . At the count of four, Gilmore's chief second threw in the towel . . . It caught on the lower rope, whereupon the second climbed up after it and proceeded along the ring platform and then threw it into the ring within view of the referee, who promptly quit counting and reported for official announcement that Zivic had won by a "technical" knockout, while the official timer continued with his count to the end . . . Gilmore was so far "out" that he had to be carried to the dressing room and Zivic was entitled to full credit for a legitimate knockout victory.

The other instance developed in the Tiger Joe West-Joe Walters bout in Franklin, in which West administered a severe beating and finally floored his man for the count in the seventh round . . . Here again the second of the beaten man tossed in the towel when he saw his man's cause was hopeless, but Referee Jack Henderson properly disregarded the signal of surrender and completed the count. However, due to a misunderstanding, announcement also was made here that the result was a "technical" knockout.

It is an unwritten law in boxing that a boxer may quit at any time, or his manager may surrender for him in the corner between rounds or the referee may halt the bout at any time before beginning a count. However, once the official count begins, it must continue until either the man on the floor is counted "out of time" or regains his feet. Throwing in the towel with a man knocked out is an old gag and will not fool any referee who is acquainted with the rules.

WINSLOW, Ariz., Jan. 4 — Homeward bound! We lost to the Trojans, of Southern California, 24 to 13, here Saturday in the final game of our western tour—but we are none the less happy. It is good to turn our faces eastward again — and it won't be long now before we're back home.

The writer of the song "Now Is the Time to Fall in Love" must have seen these oranges, eight dozen for a quarter, but points were at too much of a premium for Pitt Saturday night. The afternoon teas, the visit to studios living beyond the scale of proletarians, and new schemes of officiating, was too much for the boys.

The burlesque was really amusing. We really could have no acid in our systems over the game even if we don't sleep as well when we lose. Bill Hunter, Howard Jones and Sam Barry, the big executives of Southern California, make it so nice that you don't mind losing to them occasionally.

When the Yellow Jackets go after their third straight victory against the Windsor Bulldogs, International League champions, in Windsor tomorrow night, Stu Dunning will be at right wing for Pittsburgh.

In an effort to keep his team in a winning stride and eliminate a shortage of right wings, Charley Reid, coach of the Jackets, today traded Milt Halliday, veteran left wing, to the Cleveland Indians for Dunning, who ranked among the scoring leaders last season and who has been setting a fast pace in the present campaign.

REPORTS HERE TODAY

Dunning will report here today, and will leave with the Reidmen for Windsor tonight.

Thus far this season Stu has scored six goals and is credited with assists on two other tallies. Halliday has contributed only one goal and one assist for Pittsburgh.

When the Chicago Hawks recalled Frank Ingram early last week the Jackets lost one right wing, and when Capt. Tory Gregg was injured on Thursday, the locals lost, for a time, another star right-hand shot. Dunning should prove of great assistance in keeping the Jackets in a winning stride until Gregg's return to the lineup, and should prove a player of value throughout the season.

It is a coincidence that it was Dunning who accidentally slashed Gregg with his skate and paved the way for his (Dunning's) coming here.

LINEUP AGAIN CHANGED

Earl Miller, shifted from center to take Gregg's place at right wing Saturday, and who scored the goal that enabled Pittsburgh to break London's nine-game success string, will be shifted to center. He will be flanked by Dunning and Arbour on the starting front line.

Romnes, Rodden and Barton, who teamed up exceptionally well against London, will make up the second line, and Fields, Proudlock and White will skate as the third line tomorrow.

At the finish of the battle in Windsor tomorrow the Bulldogs will come here with the Jackets for an engagement at Duquesne Garden on Thursday.

STARS TRIP WINDSOR

SYRACUSE, Jan. 4. — (AP.) — The last-place Syracuse Stars broke into the win column of the International Hockey League last night for the fourth time in 16 games, defeating Windsor, 4 to 3, in one of the wildest exhibitions ever.

The Stars went after the Bulldogs from the start, scoring after a few minutes of the opening period. Kerr, visitors' goalie, spent a busy evening, blocking many thrusts. State police halted a free-for-all on the ice after Downie opened a gash in Lever's head in the third period.

65 BEST BALL LEADS PLAY

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 4.— (AP.) — Two amateur-pro teams yesterday set the pace in the second qualifying round of the second annual Santa Monica golf tournament, matching Saturday's low best ball scores of 65.

Ed Gayer, former Chicago professional, now of Los Angeles, and Laddie Hillman, Los Angeles amateur, and the team of Earl Berryhill, Tulsa, Okla., and Ky Laffoon, Denver pro, tied for the ranking position over the 33 who got in under the wire.

Today 65 teams will play 18 holes for $1,500 prize money.

Tri-County Floor Loop Changes Name

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 4. — The Tri-County Basketball League met here yesterday and changed its name to the Five-County League as well as electing officers. M. E. Meinert, of Uniontown, was chosen president and E. W. Kennedy was made secretary. The franchise holders include Jeannette Felders, Uniontown, Charleroi, Carmichaels, South Pittsburgh, Scottdale, Elizabeth and Monongahela.

BLUFF QUINTET EXCEPTIONALLY PROMISING

GAME TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

Pitt's Golden Panthers today are cluttering up a train somewhere between here and California, likening the wonders they are similated to the Panama Canal across the nation and are homeward bound. The good folks at Duquesne are wondering what are going to use Elmer Layden's head football coach Carnegie Tech is chuckling over the triumphs scored by the Tartans on their southern trip in Buffalo and Cincinnati and the rest of the collegiate world is preparing for the opening of the 1932 basketball chase which attains full stride this week.

Beside a victory for the outcome of the Layden-Jess Dukes and Grovers tangle is the getting under way of the most promising basketball season the Bluff school has sported in years which will receive additional goodness bonfire of fire tomorrow night as it tackles powerful Grove City in an inaugural tilt.

LAYDEN IN RUNNING

Aside from admitting that Layden is being considered among others for the successor recently resigned by Bert Ingwersen University of Illinois officials have declined to comment. Dr. E. H. Lauer, the school's athletic director, has not returned from a trip to New York where he is reported to have interviewed various coaching prospects. He has been detained in Chicago by the illness of both his father and mother, and it likely was this unforseen and unfortunate occurrence that prevented his stopping off in Pittsburgh for a chat with Layden.

Layden has not yet officially been approached by Iowa but said Saturday that he would consider an offer. That appears to be that.

Two of the three district college fives that saw action Saturday night landed triumphs. Pitt dropped the final game of a long and difficult trip losing the second game of the two-game series with Southern Cauldron when Sam Barry's team turned loose a fast breaking offense and the Pittites experienced an off night in hitting the basket. The defeat was the sixth of the 11-game string.

TECH BEATS MAROONS

Carnegie Tech, after having manhandled Buffalo Friday was forced into overtime to nose out Chicago, 40-39 at Chicago. The victory gave the Tartans a record of four triumphs out of six starts to date.

Waynesburg took Monmouth College, of Illinois, by a single basket when Rab Currie slipped under the hoop with less than a minute to go took a long pass from Ufema and hooked the ball through. The night before Westminster had served the Westerners a shellacking.

The court pyrotechnics will be on tomorrow as the Dukes and Grovers tangle. Bob Thorn the veteran Crimson mentor, and a smart laddie, too, thinks he has a ball club, and his captain, big George Stavrinaky, pencils on the back of a Christmas card that the Grovers will win the Conference title—hands down.

From the stamping grounds of Westminsters Titans and Geneva's Covenanters comes a loud and raucous "BALONEY" in answer to George's boast.

All in all, it looks like a mighty interesting campaign ahead, what with a certain battle for the Conference, city and district championships. It's something like picking the bits out of a new shirt—you pick 16 out of the garment and four or five out of yourself afterward.

BUCS WORKING ON BIG DEAL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Private plans for the immediate future are considerably upset owing to the absence of Owner Barney Dreyfuss, who is ill in New York, yet important matters pertaining to the club are being carried on with much promise by Manager George Gibson, Treasurer William Benswanger and Secretary Bain Watters.

The veteran magnate who underwent a slight surgical operation in New York about one week ago, is likely to remain in the metropolis for several weeks. Reports yesterday from the hospital where Dreyfuss is confined are optimistic, but his doctors apparently wish him to take no chances. It is likely that the Pittsburgher will go to Atlantic City to recuperate shortly after he is discharged from the institution.

Treasurer Benswanger expects to leave tonight for New York to visit with the club president. Meantime Manager Gibson at his Canadian home, is subject to any call that might ask for his presence in Pittsburgh or New York.

The Pittsburgh management has at least one deal in the making, but there are angles to the transaction which so far have held up its completion. The officials of the club have been working on the proposition for weeks.

By TOM BIRKS

Playing in a drizzling rain and on a slippery field, yet to an unusually large crowd, the Castle Shannon Morrys defeated Bridgeville, 2-0, in a hard-fought Keystone League battle at South Park, yesterday.

A heavy rain before the game began, made the going slow, but it did not appear to deter the teams from engaging in one of the hardest-fought contests of the season.

SICKLES, ZEEWAN SCORE

The Morrys appeared without Benick, their star goalkeeper, and Zeller went between the sticks. The game was not long under way before the Shannon eleven was pressing the Bridgeville defense. Zeewan forced a corner kick from Smart, and this neatly-placed boot found the ball at Harry Sickles' toe—and he lifted it into the corner of the net.

Give-and-take play followed, with the Morrys having the better of it. From another corner kick, taken by Paton, Zeewan scored his second goal. The interval came with Morrys leading, 2-0.

In the second half, Bridgeville directed heavy pressure to Zeiler, but Sickles, Van Jura and Peckovitch were in wonderful form and the Panhandle team could not break through. The game's end came with the score unchanged.

GLADDEN VICTOR

In the other games yesterday, Manown defeated Dunlevy, 2-1, in the Monongahela League, while in the Panhandle loop, Houston tied Grove, 2 to 2. Heidelberg swamped Cedar Grove, 5 to 1, and Gladden provided a big upset by nosing out Moon Run, 2 to 1.

The Morry-Bridgeville lineup:

Morrys—2		Bridgeville—0
Zeiler	G	Benick
Van Jura	R B	Smart
Peckovitch	C B	Hardesty

SLAVIA BEATS MORGAN

CLEVELAND, Jan. 4.—The Cleveland Slavias downed the fighting Morgans, 3 to 2, in a first-round national challenge cup game at Slavia Field here yesterday.

The Pittsburghers were the first to score. McCoskey passed to Buff Donnelli, who easily beat Goalie Sommers. The Slavias came back with a fierce rush, but their attempts were thwarted by Bernaber's brilliant efforts.

The score was tied shortly after the intermission, Robb slipping the ball to George Caraffi, who had an open shot.

Ten minutes later he scored again, this time taking the pass from his brother, Ralph. George cinched the battle a bit later, on a vicious drive which completely fooled Bernaber. The lineup:

Cleveland—3		Morgan—2
Somers	G	Bernaber
Kenny	R B	Cox
Nowak	C B	A. Urbanic
Fureman	C H	Chappe
Nelson	C H	P. Donnelli

Casey Stengel Signs As Brooklyn Coach

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Casey Stengel, recently released by the Toledo Baseball Club of the American Association, today was signed as coach of the Brooklyn Club of the National League for 1932.

In signing with Brooklyn Stengel returned to the club with which he started his major league baseball career in 1911, being purchased from Aurora, of the Wisconsin-Illinois League, for $300.

During his big league career he played with Pittsburgh, the Phillies, the New York Giants and the Braves. He was with Toledo as manager from 1926 until about a month ago when he was made a free agent. He played in four world series with Brooklyn and the Giants and led Toledo to the Association pennant in 1927 and won the "little world series" from Buffalo.

Steel Trade Resumes Price Cutting; Profits For 1932 to Be Hit

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE STEEL INDUSTRY is selling its birthright for a mess of pottage. Price cutting, which has brought the mills no additional business, but has been responsible for the disappearance of earnings and reductions in dividends, has been resumed.

Most types of steel are being sold for $1 to $2 a ton less than a month ago. Heavy steel products, including bars and shapes, are quoted at 1.50 cents a pound. This is $8 a ton lower than in the summer of 1929. The decline in prices of more highly finished types of steel have been even greater.

In a frantic scramble for a volume of tonnage, which does not exist, the mills have virtually given away their margin of profit. The inability of the steel companies to sell on any but a price basis is not merely a weakness produced by the low rate of business activity. It is a chronic complaint which has troubled the industry for many years. It has been price cutting that has made it impossible for even the largest steel companies to earn a satisfactory return on the vast amounts of capital taken from earnings and invested in the business.

* * *

Sacrifice of Labor Wasted by Industry

IN ITS PRODUCTION methods the story of steel has been one of steadily increasing efficiency. But as fast as the operating departments have saved money it has been thrown away by the sales departments.

The latest steel economy was in the form of wage and salary reductions. Labor accepted a smaller return for its services without any protest in order to keep many of the companies from showing losses. It has taken these companies only three months to throw away this sacrifice by cutting prices. The industry would have been just as well off if wages had been maintained at their former level and if the companies had not been given an extra margin over costs to pass on to consumers.

* * *

Price Cuts to Affect Steel Net Earnings

THE WAGE REDUCTIONS undoubtedly will be shown to have materially added to steel profits in the final quarter of 1931 but the outlook for earnings in the early part of the present year has been clouded by the latest ground lost in steel prices.

Production is having a slow start with operations at only about 20 per cent of capacity but demand invariably increases during January. Low prices, however, make it unlikely that first quarter earnings will show improvement unless the gain in output is exceptionally large.

BANK FAVORS GOLD BASIS

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A plea for the maintenance of the gold standard is made by the National City Bank in its monthly review, which states today:

"If all countries should leave the gold standard and use paper currencies having no fixed relations to each other, international trade would be in a state of chaos and domestic trade would be in almost as great confusion. In truth, the situation would be intolerable."

Citing the rather violent fluctuations of the British pound sterling following abandonment of the gold standard, the review points out:

"The effects of such fluctuations in the value of a country's money cannot be other than harmful. It is true that a depreciating currency makes for rising prices, but if a currency depreciates constantly it becomes worthless, and if it constantly fluctuates up and down it makes all business a gamble.

"All countries want the price level raised, but common sense dictates that a higher price level would be a poor swap for chaos in monetary systems and therefore in all business. Inflation is never a way out; it is only a way in."

Steel Prices.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Steel prices per 100 pounds, f. o. b. Pittsburgh: Blue annealed sheets, box, mill, $1.60@1.75; galvanized sheets, 24 gage, 2.60; black sheets, box, rolled, $2.25@2.45; steel bars, $1.50@1.60.

EASTERN RAIL PLAN FOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Opposition to certain phases of the four system plan of consolidating eastern railroads continued to pile up today with hearings two days distant.

Chairman Porter, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, assisted by Examiner Koch, will open hearings Wednesday on the plan of the Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickle Plate systems to join eastern roads into four great systems.

Some powerful class one railroads are opposed to being included in the plan, the chief being the Delaware and Hudson, controlled by L. F. Loree, an exponent of a fifth eastern system.

A 7% INCREASE

The public bought and paid for $12,302,000 Life Insurance through our representatives in the last quarter of 1931, a 7% increase over the last quarter of 1930—evidence of the faith and confidence with which people regard The Equitable.

From the experience of the past year it is certain that the American people will during 1932 invest a greater portion of their earnings in Life Insurance than ever before.

The real value of Life Insurance, however, is measured not so much by the volume written in a boom year as by the actual disbursements to beneficiaries and policyholders in a year of financial strain.

We are happy to say that The Equitable has fulfilled every request for funds promptly and without delay and has cooperated in a generous measure to help policyholders conserve their insurance and their homes.

For over 50 years—since 1880—The Woods Company, the largest life insurance agency in the world, has represented The Equitable in this community, now serving 371,000 policyholders whose insurance totals nearly ¾ of a billion dollars. This protection is guaranteed by a 72-year-old mutual company that has weathered every financial storm and whose assets now exceed One Billion Three Hundred Fifty Million Dollars.

With confidence we look forward to "1932 Prosperity Year."

FIGHT FOR NEW TRADE URGED ON LEADERS

Federal Public Works Loan Held Best Method; Autos Seen as Aid to Steel

By MERRILL RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Seasonally, the forefront of January is the time for indulging in optimistic predictions, but in the present situation it seems to me more socially useful to chart out a program for assuring recovery rather than seek to guess when more good luck will come to us.

In spite of the [illegible] pending proposals I have faith in the inventiveness and degree of determination of the American people to end the present depression. Instead of continuing economic attrition by letting destructive forces take their course in the present, our intelligent leadership ought to study ways and means of arresting the process of liquidation and of generating a counter-cyclical revolutionary movement.

Mr. Rukeyser

Many economists believe that the time is ripe to controlled [illegible] expansion. I think that the best technique for accomplishing such a program through a [illegible] bond issue to inaugurate an extraordinary program of public works. Such a program should be supplemented by a determination to fight for recovery on every front.

Thus far every business [illegible] received its first impetus from construction. Public works activities in the United States, either by the federal government, are lower than in 1929. The daily rate of [illegible] awards last month was approximately lower than at any time in a decade.

The chief [illegible] the steel industry, enterprising [illegible] which will concentrate its drive against the [illegible] during the New York automobile show week, starting next Saturday.

In estimating what the automobile trade can contribute to general economic recuperation, A. R. Erskine, president the Studebaker Corporation of South Bend, Ind., said:

"Many of the existing cars, numbering 6,000,000 practically worn out, must be replaced in 1932 through sheer necessity if normal transportation requirements are to be met.

"By making 1932 new cars better than ever, the industry has made a determined effort to stimulate new buying and replacement.

"I expect the total volume of business in 1932 will show a substantial increase in our domestic market."

MARKET SINKS NEAR LOW OF DEC. 17

Losses of 2 to 4 Appear In Leading Issues; Noon Upturn Fails to Hold

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The financial markets limped feebly into the new week today.

Share prices slipped 1 to 4 points or more, with the general average sagging into the vicinity of the bear market low of December 17. A ghost of a rally at mid-day disappeared when Case tumbled more than 6 points. Losses of 2 to 4 points were registered in such issues as American Telephone Consolidated Gas, North American, Allied Chemical, Eastman and Norfolk and Western. Issues off a point or more included United States Steel, American Can, General Motors, New York Central and Southern Pacific.

Annual statements of leading banks, which began to appear, were read with considerable interest. The high degree of liquidity shown was construed in high financial quarters as an evidence of the success with which the shrinkage in commercial activity and outstanding credit, with consequent shrinking of deposits of commercial banks, had been met. Shrinkage in deposits in the first statements roughly coincided in percentage with the shrinkage in Federal Reserve credit outstanding.

Annual surveys of business and finance appearing in large volume attracted interest in Wall street chiefly for the somewhat chastened attitude of commentators, so lacking two years ago. Some leaders felt that the evidence of a determination to face facts augured well for substantial progress toward recovery during the new year.

Failure of the market to improve, with the lifting of tax selling, has caused some disappointment, but indications of a substantial increase in the short interest caused some observers to look for a technical rally. Lasting improvement, it was felt, would require an upturn in general business. By the end of January the steel industry, which has shown little comeback from the year-end slump as yet, may provide some indication of the seasonal improvement that may be expected.

'Atchison Loadings Higher for Week

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—During the week ended January 2, the Atchison System handled 20,417 revenue freight cars compared to 19,585 in the preceding week and 25,617 in the like 1931 week.

For December, loadings were 104,335 cars as against 124,626 in November and 131,552 in December, 1930.

Forbes

Now We Can Trod the Road to Recovery.

By B. C. FORBES

THE COMPANY'S total quantity of sales was approximately equal to that of last year. The dollar value declined from about $900,000,000 in 1930 to $665,000,000 for 1931.

Mr Forbes

That of Armour and Company's annual report gives a stark picture of what business had to contend with last year.

This suggests how the cost of living has fallen:

"Bacon declined 45 per cent, smoked hams declined 33 per cent, pork loins 34 per cent, dry salt side and back meat 50 per cent, lard 43 per cent, canned corned beef 29 per cent, and the principal fresh meat items about 20 per cent."

ON THE NEW YORK Stock Exchange sales last year totaled 577,000,000 shares against 811,000,000 in 1930, 1,125,000,000 in 1929, 921,000,000 in 1928.

New stock offerings were $112,000,000 contrasted with $731,000,000 in 1930, $3,025,000,000 in 1929, $1,900,000,000 in 1928.

Bond issues amounted to $3,271,000,000 compared with $5,484,000,000 in 1930, $3,672,000,000 in 1929, $3,018,000,000 in 1928, $6,968,000,000 in 1927.

TWENTY-FIVE REPRESENTATIVE railway stocks averaged $53 in January sank below $25 in December. Typical industrial issues were cut almost half in average price. Pitts stocks which sold at $173 in February broke below $68 last month, a fall of 60 per cent.

THESE FEW FIGURES indicate what happened to volume and price in the industrial and financial world last year.

They explain why unemployment has increased so distressingly, why more than 3,000 banks failed in the last two years, why so many dividends suffered, why bond quotations have fallen, why it has been a trying time for all.

However, they convey this consolation, and ray of hope. The readjustment has been so drastic — in agricultural prices, in industry, in trade, in security markets, everything — that solid, bed-rock foundations have been laid for rebuilding.

More. Adversity promises to ... pure co-operation, co-operation between those governing and those governed, co-operation among industrial leaders, co-operation between employers and employees, co-operation among diverse parties more given to bickering and cross purposes in normal times.

THE FINAL WEEK of the year was rich in encouraging developments. Thus, Chief commodity prices, more than held their own, sometimes even displaying brisk rebound, stocks closed the week about where they began, prospects for an amicable new wage agreement brightened, and not least important, sentiment improved when the year-end stock and bond selling to record income tax deductions finished without mishap.

Wall street is hopeful that with the 1931 window dressing by banks, tax selling by individuals, bond selling by corporations to swell their cash holdings, and such like year-end operations out of the way, few obstacles to a rising trend will be encountered.

IN VIEW OF ALL that has had to be faced during 1931 and last year, the disposition in high places is to regard the conduct of the American people as gratifying, especially the universal orderliness of the unemployed. For the spasm of hysteria which prompted alarming withdrawals of bank deposits, the depositors are accounted less blamable than financial-political interests whose ill-advised measures the banking community at home, Europe, particularly the French, instituted a raid upon American and American banking institutions. It failed. But it led many American bankers to apply fresh pressure on borrowers and to make their institutions still more liquid.

All that now is over — not likely to recur.

WHAT HAPPENS NOW that we have entered a new year will depend mainly upon the spirit manifested by us all, high and low, political and financial, industrial and commercial, producers and consumers. The road to recovery can now be trod.

STOCK EXCHANGE TOPICS

Investors Attracted by 1931 Earnings Record Of Public Utilities

Owing to the fact that many public utilities in 1931 earned comfortable sums on their stocks there has been considerable investment money put into the bonds of such companies. Probably the largest totals have gone into the funded debts of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Edison Electric of Boston, Consolidated Gas of New York, New York Edison, West Penn Power, American Water Works, and Southern California Edison. Yields on these bonds are not high, accepting the present day yard-stick, but the number of times interest is being earned makes these bonds attractive. For instance, American Telephone funded debt was earned six times in 1931.

There are many in the trade who expect Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation will cover its $6 dividend in 1931 despite the fact that business volume was smaller. The management has always looked after its costs, even in the most prosperous days, and has never been satisfied with the lowest estimates of its engineers so that in the last year the company has been able to make profits where some of its competitors have had difficulties. There was some seasonal buying of Allied common and preferred stocks. The company has no funded debt.

There has been some buying of Atchison around 80. It will be the first of important railroad dividend meetings in 1932, directors being scheduled to meet on January 5. It is estimated that Atchison will show $7.25 on its common shares for the past year, which compares with current dividend requirements of $10. The Street expects the dividend to be reduced, with some estimates running as low as $6.

Brokers expect most of the January 1 dividend and interest cash to be invested in bonds. In fact, a lot of such money has already been anticipated by purchases of bonds showing an attractive yield. There are a number of bonds yielding from 8 per cent to 10 per cent that have earned their interest in 1931 with a comfortable margin, and some of the companies represented by these securities put into effect important economies the last half of the year. Therefore, without any improvement in business in 1932, such companies will probably make an even better showing against funded debt interest in the new year.

The sensational drop registered in Ettington Schild, Inc., preferred last Wednesday when the stock, after opening a small fractional net higher, subsequently slumped from 52¼ to 7½, finishing the day with a net decline of 34½ points, is under scrutiny of the stock exchange business conduct committee. A questionnaire has been issued calling for a complete list of all transactions in the first preferred stock between November 16 and December 31, including all essential data such as the long and short position of each interested person on each business day during the period. The 1931 high for the stock was 69 and the low 7½. Wednesday's trading in the issue was unusually heavy, running close to 9,000 shares with a turnover of 11,000 shares in the common stock, which also slumped sharply to a low of ½.

The Federal Reserve, judging by last week's condition statements, found member banks taking heavy recourse to its credit facilities in the closing week of the year. This was especially true in the New York district, where rediscounts rose $195,500,000 compared with $113,000,000 for the entire system, while holdings of open market bills increased $85,000,000 against $69,600,000 for the system and holdings of government bonds rose $25,000,000 compared with $45,000,000 for the system. Total reserve credits outstanding at New York rose $315,864,000 contrasted with a combined increase of $228,000,000 throughout the system. Member banks in New York, presumably for the purpose of bolstering year-end statements, increased their reserves with the regional bank in New York by $248,000,000 while combined reserve deposits of member banks as shown in the consolidated report rose by $221,000,000. This week's statements will be closely studied for evidence of a reversal of this policy.

Stock Suspended By Curb Exchange

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — The committee on listing of the New York Curb Exchange has suspended dealings in the common stock of American Natural Gas Corporation until further notice.

U. S. Exports Show 20% Drop in 1931

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — (AP) — Although the United States in 1931 withstood a shrinkage of 20 per cent in exports from 1930, most of it occurred in the early months of the year, and at the close wholesale prices were more stable than at any time for two years, the National Foreign Trade Council said.

The 20 per cent shrinkage compares with about 15 per cent for the world, allowing for the general reduction in prices, but the United States has actually sold 6 per cent more to Japan, China, and India than in 1930, the report said.

Japanese to Seek Big Morgan Loan

TOKIO, Jan. 4 — (INS.) — It was learned unofficially today that the Japanese government has decided to assist the Yokohama Specie Bank in bolstering the value of the faltering yen by borrowing $15,000,000 from J. P. Morgan & Co.

It is reported that a Japanese financial commission in New York City has already been instructed to negotiate with the financial house for the loan. Previous indications were that the Japanese government did not intend to assist in any form.

New Company Links Large Food Firms

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — The formation is announced of a new company to be known as Best Foods, Inc., to combine the activities of the present company of the same name which has been a division of General Foods Corporation.

The new company will be owned jointly by Gold Dust and General Foods.

Japan Takes More U. S. Cotton in 1931

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — Japan imported 867,00 bales of 500 pounds of American cotton from August 1 to December 21, 1931, compared with 445,000 bales for the corresponding period of 1930, the Department of Agriculture has been cabled.

Local importers estimate that shipments afloat from the United States to Japan exceed 400,000 bales.

Reichsbank Gold Coverage Lower

BERLIN, Jan. 4 — (AP) — The Reichsbank gold coverage dropped to 24.2 December 31, compared with 25.6 the previous week, notwithstanding an increase of gold foreign exchange holdings. The drop was credited to increased note circulation.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Trading in bonds was of an unenthusiastic character today and irregular price trends made for a spotty market. Foreign obligations were mixed. United States government issues were steady.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (AP).—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (odd omitted in sales column) (United States bonds in dollars and thirty seconds of dollars):

CITY WED

Story of a Young Married Couple Caught in Big City's Net

By FAITH BALDWIN

CHAPTER XIV

Walter Mason, sitting on the Lancaster porch, remarked suddenly:

"There's no need for him to come back to this one-horse town, Lancaster. I've got a job for him right in New York when he's ready to take it."

Nevis said:

"Uncle Walter!"

Well, of course. That was the idea when he went down there. It wasn't that he must earn enough to make himself full to me. I don't mean that has to come back and try to reform the sugar business. We've gotten along pretty well all these years without any young leaders," you know," said Mason.

There were mountains, friendly ones, nearby, and near running streams and ice cold lakes. There was golf and tennis and dancing. Nevis grew sound and fit again. The nights were cool for sleeping and even the hot days had some snap in them. She said, after six weeks: "I haven't had but one chill since I came home," and: "Well, I should hope not," observed her mother, scandalized. "Nevis, you'll have to persuade Bill to come back to the States. That's no place for you—down there."

She said quietly:

"As long as he's there it's my job to stick with him. I got him into it, Mother."

At the end of two months Nevis started back. She stayed again, overnight, at Della's. They sat up most of that night and talked. Small Mort was a husky demanding person. "Isn't he grand?" said Della, delightedly. "I think I'll produce a little sister for him, presently. He's getting too darned selfish. Just like his father," she added, sighing and not meaning it at all.

She took Nevis to the boat. She said: "I hate like thunder to see you go. Why don't you renig . . . and stay home and demand that Bill come on back? It's pretty pointless burying yourself down there, don't you think so?"

GREETED BY FRIENDS

Nevis, walking up the gangplank, said: "No." She could, she thought, stand the gaff now. She felt so much better. She had some new clothes. She had all sorts of things in her trunk. Aunt Margaret had given her a birthday check. And she had had the satisfaction of seeing with her own eyes that her mother was all right. Not really ill after all, just a little lonely perhaps. And the short holiday had set them both up, her mother and herself.

Bill met her in San Juan and swung her off her feet in a huge embrace. "Golly, I'm glad to see you! You look marvelous," he said. "Just like your old self. Linda and Hayes are here at the hotel. They motored up with me. We'll get along back tomorrow."

He hurried her into the car, talking, questioning. . . . "How's Dad . . ." and your mother? I know you wrote often, but you didn't write often enough. How's Della . . . and Mort, the old son of a gun? We have a swell crop, everything is toodling along in great shape. Hayes tells me his assistant is leaving to go to Santa Domingo. Looks very much as if I would get the job. More money, not that that matters as much as the job itself."

Linda met her, blonde and lazy. "You look like a new woman," she said. "I told you so, would. We've taken good care of Bill while you were gone." She smiled at him intimately. Nevis thought, sharply: "How good, I wonder?" and hated herself for it. Why did she have to be so suspicious and so jealous? Surely she hadn't been born that way. And it wasn't Bill's fault that he had his particular smile and his peculiar charm and his particular appeal to women. He couldn't help it.

NEWS FOR BILL

So she went back to the little house and lived for some weeks on her memories, entertaining Bill with chatter and gossip and description and speculation.

"Bill, you ought to see Lucy Morton . . . she's gotten so fat she has to have a specially made sedan." "And Lois French is marrying Dan Kirkwood—can you beat it . . ." of all the funny couples. "And your father has a new car, a beauty."

Westlynne news, too. "Olive's gone off on her father's new yacht," she said and shot him a glance from under her eyelashes.

"Too bad she wouldn't send us a postal," grinned Bill perfectly at ease.

But in a week or two all the gossip had been exhausted, and the new clothes were an old story by the time a month or so had passed.

Nevis had told Bill of Walter Mason's attitude and Bill said, doggedly: "Well, I won't quit. When he's got a decent job for me, he can write and tell me. We'll get along here meanwhile. It's time," said Bill, "that I saw one job through, isn't it?"

She said to herself, despairingly: "Why is it that we don't get any nearer, that things are so little different?" She meant . . . why had they not achieved a perfect and unbreakable intimacy and unity. She thought, in a way, we might just as well be back where we were. We'd be a lot healthier, at any rate.

But the change of locale had brought no alteration of emotional circumstances. There was, she decided wearily, as much temptation for Bill in Linda as in Olive. Not that Bill was that altogether despicable creature, a ladies' man. He wasn't. But women liked him, and he liked them. And wherever he was there would be some bored and generally attractive woman to let him know she liked him.

Bill had adjusted himself, he always did, and there was enough excitement to keep him going. There was to be more.

For toward the end of February a great long feline looking car drove up the steep road to where Nevis' house was perched. Someone got out, tall and slim and smartly dressed, and ran lightly up the steps. Nevis was sitting on the screened side porch, writing home. She wore faded riding breeches and puttees and a yellowing silk shirt. Not that she rode, but because in such a costume she had some protection from mosquitoes. She had not heard the car, and hearing the step, she thought it was one of the neighboring women. She pushed back the hair from her forehead—since returning to Porto Rico she had been unable to get a decent hair cut—and looked up, without much interest.

"My dear," said the girl on the other side of the screen, "it's too heavenly to see you! Where's old Bill? I'm down on the yacht with half a dozen stupid people. I left 'em at San Juan . . . and drove over. Can you put me up for a couple of days . . ."

Nevis rose. She stared, unbelieving. The other girl said: "The door's locked . . . aren't you going to let me in?"

Nevis walked over and took the hook from the door. She said, quietly, and actually smiled when she said it:

"Why, of course, Olive. Come in . . . are those your bags out there?"

Olive walked in, her slow face casually observant. "My dear, what a quaint little house," she said girlishly.

It was then that Nevis perceived that Olive had gone girlish. No other way to describe it. The lilies and languors had departed. Her clear, pale skin was washed clean of make-up, save for a deft, soft touch of color on her mouth. Her clothes were set to the tempo of a happy medium, not boyishly severe and not all feminine frills. They were smart, becoming, youthful. Her lids were more widely open than Nevis had ever seen them, her gaze direct, straightforward. She took off her small, chic hat and held it in one hand, and Nevis saw that her hair was now short, parted on the left side and loosely waved. She wore no earrings. Nevis said, blankly:

"How amazing to have you here. We've a guest room of sorts. Do you mind sharing a bathroom? I hope not, because we only have one."

She took Olive into the little, unused guest room which was furnished with austere simplicity. Olive said: "It's too lovely . . . What a country . . . I'm mad about it . . . such color and life . . . I will hate to leave it. Nevis, you don't mind, do you, that I ran away from the stupid party and came here? I had to see you and Bill and I was tired of sightseeing; tired, too, of the yacht. It's so trying, cooped up in such a small space with people, no matter how much you like them."

The native chauffeur struggled in, bent low under a weight of bags. Nevis, conscious that her blouse and linen breeches were creased and rumpled, that her hair needed the attention of a comb and her nose a coating of powder, watched Olive briskly set to her unpacking; watched her lay her gold and tortoise-shell toilet things on the dresser, her jars and bottles of crystal and gold; watched her shake out any number of little intricately simple gowns and hang them up in the heavy old-fashioned wardrobe; and listened meantime to her chatter.

The native chauffeur departed, having received his instructions. Nevis heard the car move away. Olive explained: "If you'll be a dear and keep me with you, he'll come back for me, in a week. Dad and the others are making all sorts of side trips. I ran away," she added with a glance that would have been pure mischief, coming from anyone else. Emanating from Olive, it was incredible.

"Who's with you?" Nevis asked, not that she cared.

"Oh, Dad . . . and the Fellowes . . . they're a middle-aged couple—and Fan and Tom Jordan . . . you met them at my house, didn't you? And a lad named Howell Moore . . . nice boy," said Olive, carelessly, "he's an actor, perhaps you saw him a couple of seasons ago in 'Where Is My Husband?'"

"An actor?" Nevis remembered Della's casual bit of gossip. She replied, further: "No, I don't think I saw him.

"I hate like thunder to see you go. Why don't you renig," said Della.

But I was home, you know, recently and saw something of Della. She said that you were interested in—an actor."

"Put like that," Olive remarked laughing, "it sounds awfully nineteen hundred-matinee-idol-stage-door-crush and all, doesn't it? But Howell's a dear person. We get along."

Nevis thought: they've quarreled. She's come here to—see Bill—and to teach the new one a lesson.

Nevis laughed suddenly. "What's the joke?" asked Olive, amiably.

"Nothing," Nevis told her guilelessly.

"It wasn't so comic after all, Nevis thought . . . here I made Bill give up his job and leave the place we cared a lot about to come down here because I thought our marriage was going on the rocks because of the sort of crazy life we led. But back in my mind I was really trying to get him away from Olive. We've been in Porto Rico a long time. Long enough to have him turn to Linda Hayes as a welcome change from a malaria-ridden, sloppy wife. And here's Olive, to make it more complicated. Well, thought Nevis, discovering her sense of humor, we'll fight it out on this basis if it takes all week. She said aloud: "Bill will be tickled to death to see you."

"Can't we 'phone him," Olive wanted to know, with barely concealed eagerness.

"Hardly. He's out somewhere riding the rounds or doing something which won't bring him back again until dinner time. I must go and see what Maria has for dinner, by the way." She rose. "I hope you've realized by now that the mosquito netting over your bed isn't just for looks."

Nevis went out into the kitchen and gave directions to Maria. Maria, a gregarious soul, liked company, which was a blessing. She planned, mentally, returning to Olive, I'll have to give some parties for her . . . the Hayes and some of the others. We could get up a couple of tables of bridge. She thought frantically of bachelors. There was Micky Davis, he might do. This company wasn't as rich in bachelors as the other one. Still there was Davis and Gerry Holmes, two nice Southern lads, who would be pop-eyed with pleasure at the thought of a new girl on the place and would run about wildly trying to steal or borrow or beg clean, fresh linen suits and who would shine up their riding boots until they reflected their young and bronzed faces. She said to Olive:

"Nice people here. Linda Hayes—her husband's our boss, you know—is very charming." She added, with deliberate malice: "Bill thinks she's a knockout. She's one of those blondes who, somehow, doesn't fade in this country. And there are a very nice couple or two and some bachelors. By the way, we'll have to give a dance for you. Linda has an enormous screened veranda and she'll be delighted."

"I came to see you, darling, not to be entertained," said Olive.

During the remainder of the afternoon they sat on the little porch and looked over at the mountains and a distant glimpse of the sea while Olive talked animatedly about her trip and her father and the comforts of the yacht. She kept away from personalities, something unusual, thought Nevis, or did it fit into the new role? And, a little before 6, Bill in riding kit, and looking, Nevis realized, with a sinking heart, superbly strong and tanned and well, if a little leaner than when Olive had known him, walked up the steps, whistled to Nevis, stopped short and said:

"Olive? Not Olive! Well, I'll be a son of a gun."

He had both her hands in his own. He pumped them up and down interminably. He asked . . . "How the hades did you get here? Well, this is great. We'll have to have a celebration. How do you like our shack? Nevis, did you know she was coming and didn't tell me?" he asked reproachfully.

Nevis said: "No, I didn't know until she walked in."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The cold rain Saturday morning failed to stifle the enthusiasm of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club chapter meetings. The 17 theaters, where chapters have been organized, were exceptionally well attended. Elections were held in chapters where officers have served their terms of four weeks. Others will continue in office until the first Saturday of February.

ENRIGHT CHAPTER

The following members of the Enright Chapter were chosen by popular vote:

Grand Jester—Harry Day.

Board of Governors—Tillie Smith, Margaret Hush, Fleming Restiler, Russell Reed and Veronica Walsh.

Members whose birthdays fall within the week were presented with big birthday cakes, bearing their own names in colored icing.

THE POPULAR TAMPA

The big treat of the day at the Schenley Theater was the appearance of that Master of Magic, Tampa. Tampa is one of the best magicians on the stage today, and is appearing at the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club meetings through courtesy of Hankey Bakery.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS

The children at the Rowland (Wilkinsburg) and the Harris (Etna) Chapters, were entertained by Mascara, the magician, while The Candy Man Who Grows Tall was the chief attraction at the Plaza.

KENYON STAGE SHOW

Five very clever little entertainers, who are enrolled as members of the club, sang and danced for their fellow club members at the meeting Saturday. They are Ruth Dietrich, Marion Clarke, Ethel Hall, Elizabeth Lynch and Johanna Thaner.

ARSENAL BILL

Little Lois and Betty Richards, members of Arsenal Chapter, contributed several song and dance numbers to the program at the Arsenal. Their act was followed by chorus numbers and other stunts.

Contests were held on the stages of all the theaters, and attractive prizes awarded to the winners.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

The Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club extends greetings to the following members, who will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow:

Belmar—Ruth Matony, Hattie Chapman, Billy Carroll, Edward Gordon, Harold Lohr, Frances Masterson, Helen Garland, Elnor La Trapf, Alice Scholler, Paul Sisk, Mary McGowan, Dan Battiste, Jack Grass.

Schenley—Nathan Goun, Margaret Lester.

Etna Harris—Mary Jane King, William Bragg, Irene Breda, William Klaus.

Cameraphone — Mary Jane Goun.

South Hill—Elmer Casey.

Davis—Matthew Murnick.

Plaza—Daniel Catullo.

Kenyon — Erna Richardson, William Khemsh.

Rowland (Wilkinsburg) — Eugene Curran.

Manor — Margaret Erdeky, Melvin Grove.

Prince (Ambridge)—Anthony Rephowski, Frank Hulet, Thomas Manjak, Paline Tallarita.

Make the Job Thorough

The Grand Jury Has an Opportunity in the Franklin Bank Probe to Strike a Blow at Corruption.

The grand jury investigation of Roy D. Schooley's management of the City Treasurer's office is expected to end tomorrow.

Scandalous irregularities have been found, especially in connection with Schooley's dealings with the wrecked Franklin Savings and Trust Company. But there is reason to believe that the grand jury has not yet found out all that it should find out about the looting of this bank and the looting of the city treasury by politicians.

George F. Taylor, Jr., special deputy secretary of banking in charge of the Franklin bank and the official probably most conversant with its transactions, has not been called.

The real estate dealer whose check for $62,000 in payment of delinquent taxes was not deposited, though designated in the City Treasurer's accounts as "cash," has not been called.

Dr. F. H. Frederick, campaign manager in 1929 for Mayor Charles H. Kline, and Representative Samuel J. Grenet, Republican chairman of the Twenty-seventh Ward, have not yet appeared before the grand jury. They have been subpenaed, to be sure, but no earnest effort has been made to compel their attendance. They may know something that the grand jury should know about the financing of the Kline campaign.

This is the grand jury's responsibility as well as the District Attorney's. The grand jury is not dependent on the District Attorney. It has the power to summon and question witnesses on its own initiative. It is to be hoped it will not adjourn until it has made a thorough job of the investigation, which offers an exceptionally good opportunity to strike a blow at political corruption.

Public Utility Rates

The Demand for Fair Play Will Continue to Be Heard, Despite the Legislature's Attitude.

Before the Legislature adjourned the House voted down resolutions introduced by Representatives Frank Reed and Matthew Dunn of Allegheny County, calling on the Public Service Commission to conduct an investigation of utility rates.

Hundreds of Pittsburghers have a sharp reminder every day in the 25-cent fare charged by the monopolistic Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company for a 10-cent bus ride that utility rates are not all that they should be.

The demand for an investigation was based on the reduction that has occurred in commodity prices and wages, cuts from which the utility companies have benefited, and in the benefit of which it is felt they should let their customers share by lowering their rates.

But even before commodity prices and wages came down there was cause for questioning the reasonableness of some of the utility rates, for they were based on inflated reports of the companies' investment.

What would be a fair return on the investment if a company had invested in its plant as much as it said it did may be unfair—unfair from the standpoint of the public that is—if the investment is actually less.

We had a concrete example of inflation not so long ago in the case of a power company operating on the Clarion River which was found by the Federal Power Commission to have sold its stock for much less than the value it placed on the shares and to have charged to capital investment such items as neckties given away as souvenirs.

The people of Pennsylvania have a well-defined feeling that some of the public utilities are not giving them a square deal. The feeling found expression in the election of Gov. Pinchot.

The demand for fair play will continue to be heard, notwithstanding the Legislature's refusal to do anything.

A fact of significance in this connection is that the Western Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association, representing scores of trade and civic bodies, decided at a recent meeting to ask every candidate for the Legislature next year to pledge support for rate reform measures.

A Suspicious Parallel

Pneumonia Mortality and Air Precipitation Curves Seem to Be Connected.

Pittsburgh has the highest pneumonia mortality rate of any of the large American cities. Our rate of 211.9 deaths per 100,000 of population compares with 75.5 in San Francisco, 102.8 in Chicago, 111.2 in Detroit, 129.7 in Philadelphia, 140.3 in New York, 169.4 in Baltimore, and 176.4 in Denver.

But Pittsburgh has for some years been in a position of leadership in the fight against pneumonia, and has some victories to its credit.

In 1923 our pneumonia mortality rate was 374.4, and it caused far more deaths than any other disease. Dr. Carey J. Vaux, then Director of Public Health, decided to treat it as an infectious disease and to quarantine the homes of patients. The result has been a fall in the death rate from pneumonia, which has dropped to second place among the causes of death.

Pittsburgh's leadership in quarantining pneumonia has since been followed by other communities.

The purpose in reviewing the pneumonia situation is to call attention to some interesting facts that have been discovered by Dr. C. B. Maits, Director of Public Health, and Dr. H. B. Meller, head of the Mellon Institute's smoke investigation.

They find that deaths from pneumonia are most numerous at times and in neighborhoods when and where there is the greatest precipitation of solid particles from the air. These particles do not necessarily come from smoke; they may consist in large part of invisible matter discharged from stacks.

Drs. Maits and Meller report that in 1923, the year of our highest mortality rate from pneumonia, the precipitation of solid matter from the air averaged 1,400 tons per square mile, whereas in 1930, when the death rate was much lower, the precipitation was about 1,000 tons.

Moreover, in the congested industrial districts of the city, where the precipitation is as great as 2,500 tons per square mile, a pneumonia death rate of 400 or more per 100,000 of population is found, whereas in other sections with precipitation as low as 250 tons the death rate ranges between 50 and 100.

The fact that the curves marking the rise and fall of deaths from pneumonia and precipitation of solid particles from the air are parallel is suspicious.

We have a bureau for the regulation of smoke, headed by Dr. Meller. The seeming connection between pneumonia and the precipitation of solid particles from the air—ore dust, ash and other products of combustion other than the tar indicative of dense black smoke—suggests that the bureau's field should be extended to cover the regulation of all forms of air pollution.

Why Reno Prospers

Nine men out of 10 should be given a sanity test the moment they apply for a marriage license.

* * *

The average woman marries for a good reason. But a man never even thinks of marrying until he has lost what he fondly terms his "reason." When he picks out a wife he appears to be suffering from an attack of vertigo and deliberately planning his own destruction.

* * *

Reno would suffer from a frightful depression if men chose their wives when rational, lucid and in their sober senses, instead of in a moment of mental aberration.

* * *

For instance, why shouldn't the man who has just divorced one woman for two-timing him, yet who blithly contemplates becoming the fourth husband of a notorious stage beauty, be put in the charge of an alienist?

Why shouldn't the man who rushes into matrimony "on a dare" after an all-night whoopee party, be given a sanity test?

* * *

Why shouldn't there be some sort of sanity test for the elderly Lothario who leads to the altar a blushing bride of sweet 16, in the firm conviction that she loves him for his bald spot and his bridgework, and will be content to sit at home and count his calories for the rest of her life?

* * *

And also for the languid youth who marries a wealthy widow old enough to be his grandmamma's chum, in the optimistic belief that her kisses will not prove too much of an income-tax?

* * *

Likewise, there should be a rigid sanity test for the Big Heman who marries a brilliant intellectual woman, in the naive faith that she will be meekly content to let him do her THINKING for her, and to concentrate her whole mind on frying his bacon and listening to his jokes.

And for the domesticated, home-loving man who marries a glittering show-girl or a beauty-prize winner in the fond hope that she will settle down into a sweet, retiring Alice-sit-by-the-fire, and be delighted to spend her days darning his socks.

* * *

And there should be at least TWO sanity tests for the fatuous man, who is dazzled by the limelight, and deliberately goes into total eclipse by marrying a glamorous screen star or a famous prima donna, with the deluded idea that he will "live his own life" and be "It" around the house.

* * *

Of course, I have nothing against Reno. They say the climate is wonderful out there. But I am sure the floating population would be greatly decreased, if men picked their wives with any sanity.

Isn't It So?

The high brow is not acquired by face-lifting.

Whiskers have one advantage. They save necktie bills.

The beauty parlors are making old maids scarcer and scarcer.

A used car is one on which everything makes a noise but the horn.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Diary of a modern Pepys. Lay late, touched by the pervasive awarness and downward pull of years. And pleased when Monta Bell, all merry and bright, popped in and we talked of days he directed Garbo. Came word from Charles G. Norris he was dashing to London and would join Kathleen here shortly.

Through the town, running into Constance Collier, Dick Berlin and Bill Hamilton. Thence to call on an old friend whose investments have gone awry and he was reminded of a hurt, faithful dog, licking his sores. Then to a tea, meeting Rose Sydell, a burlesque belle of another day.

Dined at Dinty Moore's and to a play, sitting next to Hope Williams gay in a frock of red beads. And at intermission talked to Bugs Baer and his brunette bride. Then to the Casino to join a party which included Katherine Brush and her husband, the Karl Bickels and Conrad Nagel.

* * *

Frank Case has converted an Algonquin dining room into an after theater haven for writing and theatrical folks. There are counters of food, temptingly displayed and tables for games of backgammon, jack-straws, dominoes and checkers. Mr. Case is fostering a quixotic adventure to restore the art of conversation. He believes the world in mood for informal haunts, with no saxophone interruptions, where intelligent people may congregate, have a bite and indulge a terrene taste for gossip of the day.

* * *

Robert Sherwood, New York's tallest playwright, and Junior Laemmle, the movies half pintest director, were constant companions on the former's stay in Hollywood. "We talked through a third party, five and a half feet high," explains Sherwood.

* * *

Personal nomination for the only author suggesting the sort of stories he writes—Clarence Buddington Kelland.

* * *

New York flapperdom got its first close up of the crooning Russ Colombo at the beginning of his Waldorf engagement. He waves the baton and croons into the microphone. In profile, he suggests an enlarged edition of Billy De Beck, the cartoonist. At the moment he is to me a second string Bing Crosby. But the combined furore over both does not yet touch that over the Old Master Crooner—Rudy Vallee. He still leads the pack by a hair wave.

* * *

As an addition to a new Fifth avenue skyscraper thesaurus, a wealthy Japanese had made tentative arrangements to open the smartest fish shops in the world on the ground floor. There were to be pillars of clear glass, running with fish, and the sidewalk outside in the same fashion. The interior was to be rows of tanks set in pink marble and edged in chromium. And along came the crash.

* * *

A parvenu was leaving a sandwich salon the other midnight when an ermined lady, sheathed in the Broadway ego and squired by a group of gigolos, elbowed him brusquely out of her way. "Ah!" he exclaimed, "a career woman."

* * *

Then Frank McIntyre's story of an actor beating his wife to the punch after a week's absence on a bender. As she approached near his club he rushed at her exclaiming, "Don't try to explain. I'll take you back but you only get one more chance."

* * *

And Leonard Bergman, who has taken over the old Gaiety theater, has a stage manager who is one of those diamonds in the rough. A lisping actor dropped back stage and asked to see Mr. Bergman. After a long wait, he stamped his foot, clapped his hands and cried: "See here, I've waited long enough. My name is Dood!" To which the stage manager replied: "O for doodness sake!"

From Cameron, Mo.: "I saw you but once. Just a flash as you bugged down the main street of Plattsburg, Mo., with a lady one Sunday afternoon. Do you remember?"

Do I? That was the day the line slipped under the old mare's tail and we went through town in a big way.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

There is a certain famous and most popular poem which always arouses my ire. Don't I like it? Of course I like it. I could sit for years in the gloaming listening to it, snivelling over it—you 'n' me, both. But just the same, I think it should be abated as a public nuisance. Remember? Who doesn't!

"Show me the road to yesterday,
Show me the paths I used to stray——"

Choke right up, don't you? So do I. It's dollars to doughnuts that more blubbers have been blubbed over that ditty than over all the other theme songs put together. And its popularity will endure as long as belliakin humans inhabit this sphere. Why? Because it's a song for cowards—and show me one of us who isn't!

It's a song for those who want to duck Today, with all its grim responsibilities and consequences, and hie them back to the carefree past.

Of course, that past wasn't really as carefree as we like to imagine. It, too, had responsibilities and consequences to be faced, and we whined plenty when we faced them. But now, looking back through the golden mist of dreams, all those difficulties are forgotten and we see only an enchanted land in which there were no tiresome decisions to be made, no humiliating blunders to be lived down, no irritating criticisms to be borne.

If only we could escape from today's dreary reality into that delightful existence! No wonder we ardently wish that someone would "Show us the road to yesterday,

Show us the paths we used to stray—"

Indeed, so ardently do we long to retrace our steps, that many of us spend our lives in doing nothing else but. How often you've met them—those pathetic, exasperating people who insist on "living in the past"—

The fluttering ladies over 40 who insist on being sweet young things, although they have acquired double chins and grandchildren—

The bay-windowed old boys of 50 who can never forget that they were football heroes in 1908, and who go collegiate at the slightest provocation.

Funny? No, they're not funny; they're tragic—as sad as stunted dwarfs which, mentally, they are. They have found "the road to yesterday." Indeed, they never left it.

Long ago they stopped growing up. They stopped because grown-up life seemed so irksome and difficult that it frightened them. And so they stayed youngsters—hid from today in the memories of yesterday.

To some degree we all do that, and kid ourselves that we do it because the good old days were so much cleaner and saner than the days of 1932. That's the bunk! We cling to the dear, sweet sappy memories of yesterday because that's 100 per cent easier than rolling up our sleeves and taking a good, hard stranglehold on today.

NIX ON THE ROAD TO YESTERDAY!

Never mind how much pleasure that road held. Never mind how popular you were, or how many records you made. That road is behind you now. Keep it behind you.

DO NOT LOOK BACK! THE PAST, WHICH WAS SO SWEET IN THE LIVING, WILL BE A TRAP IF YOU LINGER IN IT NOW.

Live in today. Here, in today, lie your duty and your opportunity.

IF YOU AREN'T LIVING TODAY, YOU'RE NOT LIVING AT ALL. YOU'RE JUST A GHOST.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Do you know:

1. What is meant by "halcyon days?"
2. In what continent are the Appalachian Mountains?
3. About how high is Mt. Vesuvius?
4. About how deep is the Pacific Ocean?
5. What appearance have cirrus clouds?
6. Where is silver produced in greatest amount?
7. What state produces the largest grape crop?
8. Where is the century plant native?
9. When do hyenas seek prey?
10. What do bats resemble?

Match correctly:

11. Opaque	legitimate.
12. Pure	risk.
13. Authorized	unadulterated.
14. Decipher	murky.
15. Hazard	unravel.

Answers to today's test:

1. Peaceful days. 2. North America. 3. 4,260 feet. 4. Between 15,000 and 18,000 feet. 5. Small curl-like clouds. 6. Rocky Mountains and Andes. 7. New York. 8. Mexico. 9. At night. 10. Half mouse, half bird. 11. Murky. 12. Unadulterated. 13. Legitimate. 14. Unravel. 15. Risk.

Text For Today

My little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous.—I. John, ii:1.

President Hoover Was Prodded Into Action

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

In his conference with newspapermen, President Hoover reiterated his promise made almost four years ago to reorganize the government to end duplication and overlapping and save money. There is nothing new in the idea. It has been a full generation since the late Senator Aldrich said he could save an enormous amount through a reorganization.

In the campaign of 1928 Gov. Smith who, without talking so much about it, proceeded to act on the reorganization of the New York state government, attacked the bureaucratic government in Washington with its duplication of duties and its resulting inefficiency. And Mr. Hoover met the attack with the promise to reorganize the government if elected.

That was almost four years ago. And nothing much has been done.

It is a mere coincidence, perhaps, that the President's promise to newspaper men followed close upon an attack upon him by his late opponent recently, because he had done nothing to carry out his promise. And close upon the discovery that the Democratic House was planning to take action along the reorganization line.

One would have more confidence in the presidential program had it been revived under different and not so much under the aspect of political duress.

* * *

Neglected to Follow Up His Promise

The reorganization affects the executive department of the government, and the President himself is in the best position to know where there are duplications and overlapping. It might have been expected that long ago he would have gone before Congress with specific recommendations for a complete overhauling. He might have made a point of it in his recent message.

It now seems passing strange that in his interview with the press he should assume a belligerent attitude toward Congress as though he had been pressing for these reforms, specifically set forth out of his superior knowledge of conditions in the executive department.

The answer of Congress might well be phrased in the question form:

"When have you submitted a plan for a general reorganization of the Government?"

And another: "What specific plan for a general reorganization do you make now?"

The truth is, of course, as every one knows, that he has neglected to follow up his almost four-year-old promise with action; and the impression is not unnatural that his belated statement which might better have been presented to Congress with a program, has been forced by the forthcoming attacks on his procrastination.

* * *

Burdened Down With A Bureaucracy

This is the explanation of the sharp comment of Speaker Garner:

"The Democrats are determined that the cost of maintaining the government shall come down. Mr. Hoover has had a commission at work for a long time to determine what shall be done about consolidations of the government departments. Why has he not acted before? The answer is that he never intended to act until he heard that the Democrats in Congress decided some time ago that they would reorganize the government departments to save the American taxpayers money—regardless of political considerations."

The truth is that this country is burdened down with a bureaucracy; that one man in 10 in the country has a federal badge on his breast; that this vast army is not directly amenable to the people; that literally 'here are thousands feeding at the public trough who are living on a dole; that we are drifting into a government by commissions, and that no one has tended so much in this direction as Mr. Hoover himself.

We have come nearer having government by commission in America in the last three years than ever before in history.

* * *

Statesmanlike Suggestions

On the tariff, which has wrecked our foreign markets, Mr. Hoover says nothing even to the newspapermen; because he is thoroughly committed to the Grundy act. A general revision of the tariff in the traditional sense is impossible this session. The Democrats have the House only, and the President would be waiting at the other end of the avenue with a veto. Then, too, our insufferably stupid economic policy has brought upon us the inevitable retaliation of other nations, and we cannot act sweepingly without an understanding that it would result in reopening to us the markets of the world.

Two suggestions are worth considering! Mr. Rainey, leader of the House, suggests a revision, the reductions in the rate conditional on reciprocal treatment from other governments.

Senator Hull, one of the outstanding statesmen and economists, proposes a resolution requesting the President to sound out foreign governments on an international conference on tariffs and trade.

Both are statesmanlike suggestions—but there is more that can be done. Reductions can be made in the rates on cement and lumber, which the President, strangely interested in home building in these days of vacant houses and evictions, ought to favor.

These rates were put through by a scandalous combination of the cement and lumber interests, trading.

* * *

Limit the Power of The Tariff Commission

And something may well be done with the Tariff Commission and the fraudulent flexibility clause. The Commission, as reorganized by the last Congress, is an instrumentality of the executive; and the original sponsors of the Commission, like Senator Beveridge, never had any such thing in mind. The Commission is no longer a nonpartisan organization interested primarily in scientific adjustments of the schedules; it is a packed Commission converted into a tool of the executive. Its primary purpose was to assemble facts to assist Congress in reaching an accurate conclusion as to the rates. When its high tariff opponents protested that the fixing of rates is a constitutional function of Congress, Beveridge replied:

"The sole purpose is to assist Congress with the facts and nothing more. It is absurd to assume that it can have any other purpose."

Then, with the backing of the commissions, came the flexibility clause through which the President, with a subservient commission may increase or lower rates without reference to the Congress. It was defended when proposed on the theory that the President thus would be able to lower the tariff taxes of the people; it has never been used to that end, and almost always to increase taxes on the people. Mr. Coolidge pigeon-holed a recommendation for a reduction on sugar and gave pig iron an increase of 50 per cent, and the present commission finds nothing objectionable in the rates on lumber and cement.

The tariff commission should be limited to its original functions, purged of its partisanship, and the flexibility clause should go out; for it never should have gone in.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may not be as welcome in the home of a friend in the evening as you think you are.

It is possible to "just drop in" too frequently.

Having not announced your visit, your friends may have completed arrangements to spend the evening some other way.

Then some couples like to study and others have "home work" they must do and unexpected guests put them behind with their bread and butter work of the next day.

It is fine to have friends of such long standing that one feels he or she may call at any time, but it can be carried too far.

The very best of friends are not welcome at all times.

Even a short call is better prefaced by a telephone question to know if it be convenient in these times when there is more or less irregularity in home plans.

And there should be absolute frankness on the part of the one questioned.

There should be fairness in the mind of the one who asks to call.

There should be no offense if told that a certain call would be more welcome at another time.

Too often people force themselves upon a family when they are not wanted and get themselves disliked because they are inconsiderate.
